

STAMP SALE SHOWS DOUBLE IN REPORT

HELEN KING WINS FIRST PRIZE FOR GIRLS AND ALONZO POND FOR BOYS.

TURNED IN OVER $610

Miss Vlyman Announces Winners in What Has Been Most Successful Campaign in City.

Under the direction of Miss Helen Vlyman, Janesville, more than doubled last year's sale of Christmas stamps for the benefit of the Anti-Tuberculosis Society, turning in $610.00 for the 610,000 stamps disposed of. Janesville made a strong effort to secure one of the state prizes but the result will not be known until the latter part of the month. According to the agreement of the Anti-Tuberculosis society half of the proceeds will go toward paying the salary of a visiting nurse here as a society has been formed in the city and fulfilled the necessary conditions. The stamp sale interested a great many people as shown by the results and when the society for the prevention of tuberculosis was fully organized and in proper running condition they are planning to keep up the enthusiasm for a cause as worthy as this one.

Prizes were offered for the largest number of stamps sold and two tax stamps were held the proceeds from which being used to buy stamps and every effort was made to have Janesville among the first in the state. Helen King among the girls sold the largest number of stamps in the city while among the boys Alonzo Pond was most successful. Following are the names of the prize winners and their rewards:

POSSE AFTER NEGRO WHO ATTACKED GIRL

Violence Threatened to Denver Black Man Who Attacked Young Woman Last Night and Escaped.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Denver, Colo., Jan. 13.—A posse is searching the outlying districts north of Denver for a negro who attacked Miss Lita Hazlett, a school teacher, twenty-six years old, on the prairie last night. The negro called an employment agency by telephone and represented himself to be a Mr. Allen, who wanted a governess. Miss Hazlett was sent to the supposed position. A negro who met her when she alighted from a car said he was the servant sent to escort her to the Allen home. He led the way across the open prairie where she said he attacked her and endeavored her to humiliate. Regarding consciousness she made her way to a nearby ranch and told her story. Miss Hazlett came here from Pennsylvania.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—Undisguised posters reading "Graciosa, Mable, Get in Petticoat School," nailed up at various points on the Wisconsin campus this week, came under the ban of Mrs. Loh K. Matthews, new dean of women when the bi-monthly humorous publication was edited by the coeds. The offending signs were taken down. This is the second time this week that Mrs. Matthews has exercised authority in this manner, having also ordered the expurgation of the program of the Union vaudeville show which featured the Phi Phi sorority by name.

FIVE AUTO RIDERS DROWNED WHEN CAR RUNS ON THIN ICE

Accident Fatal to Five of Six Occupants of Machine Occurred Near Trenton, N. J.—Driver Alone Escapes.

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 12.—Two men and three women were drowned early today when the automobile in which they were riding, run on the ice covering an artificial stream of water used by a power plant outside this city.

The men were Donald Leed, son of former Supreme Court Justice Alfred Leed, and his brother, and the women were Miss Margaret Tondall, Anna Hazel and Helen Milzey.

Chaffour Escapes

Frederick M. Foster, a third man in the party who was running the automobile, escaped drowning but is suffering from exposure. Foster managed to escape from the machine after it had broken through the ice and ran nearly a mile to get help.

Had Lost Control

The accident happened at a point where there is a sharp bend in the road and it is believed that Foster became numb with the cold and that he was unable to control the steering wheel.

Foster was in another accident at New Brunswick some months ago.

A Joy Ride

The accident occurred on a road house where they had spent several hours. The girls were well known in the city.

LIBRARIES SHOULD BAR MAGAZINE FICTION THAT DESTROYS FAMILY TIES.

Member of Wisconsin Library Commission Speaks Forcefully Concerning Certain Stories.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—Because many magazines print fiction exploiting individualism and the breaking up of family life, Miss Lilla E. Starnes, chief of the traveling library department of the Wisconsin library commission, advises librarians of the state to bar all such periodicals from the shelves. Speaking of this tendency of modern fiction, she says in the Wisconsin Library Bulletin, just out: "Stories which incidentally do this should be barred from library tables; any periodical which makes a specialty of such stories should be discontinued. When upon the conclusion of any session a story in a periodical is immediately to be begun, drastic action in the way of protest should be made to publishers. In addition to the severance of all connection with the periodical on the part of the library."

TEMPERATURE RISES FOR SHORT RESPIRE

Cold Wave Passes From Middle Lake Region But Severe Temperature is Again Predicted.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 13.—After almost two weeks of the coldest weather experienced in years, the temperature of the middle lake region and the cold northwest is gradually rising today. The cold wave is passing on eastward and southward. But, according to the local weather bureau, the respite is to be short.

Starting out at midnight with the temperature one degree below zero, there came a moderation until at six o'clock this morning it had ascended to two degrees above.

The forecast had been that ten degrees below would be reached during the night but such weather did not appear. This prediction was followed by one that the day would mark the end of the present frigid spell, and early conditions pointed to the truthfulness of the prophecy.

MORE TESTIMONY ON DETAILS OF BOOKS

H. O. Timmons, Chief Clerk for Morris and Company, Closely Questioned on Stand Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, Jan. 13.—H. O. Timmons, chief accountant for Morris and Company, resumed the witness stand at the opening of court today in the trial of the ten packers charged with maintaining a combination in restraint of trade.

Timmons continued his testimony regarding the details of the accounting system used. The witness described each book and enumerated the statements kept in it.

Special Counsel James M. Sheehan, questioned Timmons at length in an effort to trace the items covering the sale of by-products through the different books.

Counsel for the government and an expert accountant worked until nearly midnight Friday going through the books of Morris and Company and Timmons was asked to explain many of the items selected by the prosecution.

Voluntaneous vouchers were read showing the transfer of by-products credits from one department to another.

One entry on the Journal of Morris and Company for Sept. 19, 1907, showed that $7,937.47 had been purchased at a cost of $1,299,195.03.

The principal credits were $7,787.35 for hides and $17,686.21 for fertilizer.

ITALIAN REVERSES REPORTED INSTEAD OF MANY VICTORIES

Letters From Men at the Front With Invading Army Seem to Deny Wholesale Winnings.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Rome, Italy, Jan. 13.—Letters from Italian officers and men serving with the invading army in Tripoli and Cyrenaica are received by their friends in Italy, describing in detail the extremely unpleasant position of the Italian troops at the front.

Fights which have been claimed as being a victory in official dispatches from the commander-in-chief of the Italian expedition, are said by these correspondents to have been reverses.

The Italians appear to be suffering more heavily in the vicinity of Derna than at other points. The troops who are protecting the engineers employed on the construction of aqueducts to bring water into the town have had frequent engagements with the Turks and their Arab allies.

Statements of the latter make harassing attacks on the Italian outposts day after day. One Italian officer, writing to his father, says the Italian army has lost a large number of men in these engagements.

BANNER APPLE CROP REPORTED IN STATE

Secretary of Horticultural Society States Wisconsin Fruit Crop in 1911 Was Best in Years.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, Wis., Jan. 13.—The 1911 fruit crop in Wisconsin, especially the apple crop, was the largest of any year since 1896, according to Frederick Crane, secretary of the Wisconsin State Horticultural society this week. He estimated the crop at 400,000 barrels, one-half of which was from farm orchards which averaged less than 50 cents per bushel on the market. In extent of territory adapted to fruit growing, he said, Wisconsin leads many, if not all of the states in the upper Mississippi valley.

Door county has 2,000 acres of cherries, and 22 carloads of cherries and 48 of strawberries were hauled by the Sturgeon Bay Fruit exchange last year. In 1920, it is estimated, door county shipments of cherries will amount to 200 carloads a day for twenty days, requiring an army of 25,000 pickers. Secretary Crane noted the steady development of the district north of Sturgeon Bay on the Green Bay shore, where a 3,000-acre tract has been bought by two university of Wisconsin horticultural professors. The Washington-Dayfield section is developing no less rapidly, he said. The Kishwaukee section, further south, has the initial stages of development with prospects which he calls very encouraging. Mr. Crane said that Monroe, Eau Claire, Chippewa and Dunn counties need only intelligent working to place them in rank with Orleans and Wayne counties in New York.

"Milwaukee and Waukesha counties may also be classed as undeveloped," he said, "even though fruit has been grown there for seventy-five years. Milwaukee buyers send to New York and Michigan for apples that are grown equally as well at home. Milwaukee growers are today paying $1 per barrel for apples. Truly Milwaukee county may be classed as undeveloped."

Commercial horticulture is now an established industry in Wisconsin, he said, and a rapidly growing one.

BIRTHDAY OF PRINCE ARTHUR OF CONNAUGHT

Cousin Of King George And Son Of Canadian Governor-General Is Thirty Years Old Today.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

London, Jan. 13.—Prince Arthur of Connaught, son of the Governor-General of Canada and first cousin of King George V, today entered upon his thirtieth year, having been born January 13, 1882. Prince Arthur is one of the most popular of the British royal family and without doubt one of the most promising. He is as much a favorite with the present King as he was with the late King Edward, who, during the latter years of his reign frequently showed his confidence in the ability of his young nephew by despatching him on important diplomatic missions. Prince Arthur, like his pretty sister the Princess Patricia, who is enjoying the winter with her parents at Ottawa, shows no inclination to rush into matrimony. There is no doubt that some years ago the dashing young prince was much in love with Lady Marjorie Manners, the fascinating daughter of the present Duke of Rutland, but circumstances and the royal negative intervened to prevent a match, since which time the prince has been content to remain a bachelor.

Tingley, head of the universal brotherhood and theological society. The letters were written to Theodore H. Leake, an architect.

SOCIALISTS GAINED IN ELECTION FRIDAY

Although Re-ballot Must Be Awaited for Correct Result Socialists Had Most Gains of Any Party.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Berlin, Germany, Jan. 13.—At day-break today with the returns of yesterday's elections practically completed it was apparent that the re-ballot must be awaited before the character of the Reichstag would be definitely known.

The result, with only 47 districts tabulated, are as follows:

Socialist seats won 62, a net gain of 24; re-ballots, 13.

Conservative seats won, 32; a net loss of 18; re-ballots, 65.

Centrist seats won, 82; a net loss of 6; re-ballots, 35.

National liberal seats won, 4; a net loss of 13; re-ballots, 53.

Radicals seats won, none; a net loss of 12; re-ballots, 51.

The socialist gains, it appears, are mainly at the expense of the radicals, who are greatly disappointed at their showing. They will return to the Reichstag with hardly more than three-fifths of their former strength.

Returns All In.

The unofficial returns of the result of polling for the election of Reichstag have been received from all of the 337 constituencies, but owing to discrepancies in the tabulation, it is still difficult to make any definite prediction of the new Reichstag. There are 189 constituencies in which a second ballot will be necessary.

The conservative electoral coalition which has had uncontrolled domination of the Imperial parliament since the fall of Prince von Bismarck, has been badly shaken on this occasion. Its absolute majority probably is a thing of the past, but the combination of two powerful parties must be reckoned with as the strongest factor in the Reichstag.

PHILADELPHIA HAS COSTLY FIRE TODAY

Fire Originating in Film Company's Building Spread to Other Stores Before Checked.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Philadelphia, Jan. 13.—Fire which for a time seriously threatened the business center of the city, damaged property early today to the extent of about $200,000. The fire originated in the building occupied by the General Film company, manufacturers of moving picture film, and by a moving picture theatre at 926-928 Market street. The fire spread to the department store of Berg and Berg, and the furniture store of Stern and company, adjoining.

CHICKEN SHOW OPENS ON MONDAY MORNING

Expected That All The Birds Will be in Place by Tuesday Noon at The Latest.

The entries for the local show will close at noon Monday and all birds must be at the rink Tuesday noon. The sooner the entries are made and the quicker the birds come there, the earlier will the awards be known. Many who are intending to show have but little knowledge of the temperance of fowls so be sure that you cover your caps well with either burlap or muslin so that combs and wattles will not freeze. The fowls can stand all the cold as feathers are nonconductors of heat and thus keep the heat of the body in. But do not allow drafts or dampness to come up on the birds for both are very bad. If you wish to keep your fowls from a feverish condition be sure not to feed them the last regular meal before shipping and do not water. This may seem strange but it is for the best interest of the fowls. If possible give each bird a one grain capsule of quinine as that will ward off colds which might prove harmful. If you can spare the time come with your birds and that will help the show authorities and it will make it possible to get your birds into their exhibition coop as soon as they arrive.

Every official of the show will wear a badge and you are urgently requested to ask them for any information about the show that you may wish to know. They wish to have it distinctly understood that they are the servants of the people who come to the rink and as such are ever ready to do all they can to make everything clear.

Mr. Kessler the judge will remain after the awards are made and answer any questions you may wish to know about the various birds that will be on exhibition. This will give you a fine opportunity to learn much good to be sure and take advantage of it.

Entries that are in for the show of the various kinds of fowls to be exhibited show that there will be many. The stately Leghorn will hold prominent place beside the fatherly old Buff Orpington. The 45-centimeter of the 125 lb. Brahma. All the glory of being a thousand will be demonstrated by that breed in competition for notice beside the old reliable Barred Rock. Bonnets as they are called by many rivaling those for Easter will adorn the heads of the White Crested Black Polish and their sister the Houdan will endeavor to show that the white must need a little black mixed in to make that headgear correct. Orpingtons, the true old English fowl, Langshins tall in stature and black as coal, Minorcas whose beautiful combs make the other fowls envious of them, and the gracefully curved Wyandotte will be there in full force.

It is up to the people of our city to make this show a success financially. Come to the show and bring your friends with you. Boost Jamesville in the poultry work so that our city will be second to none. We need a larger and better city. We are all of one mind in that respect and so let all get together and make this a grand success.

One of the features of the show will be the appearance of "The Great Pink," a pure bred Chinese Indulgan fowls grown at the famous Mullein Square Garden, N. Y., comes under what is known as the anti-phlo system. It is valued at $25,000 by its owner and will be exhibited under special precautions at the coming show.

Much interest is also shown in the feather guessing contest and the jar containing the plumes of deceased fowls will be one of the center of attractions at the rink show.

BUSY SESSION ENDS AMID GOOD FEELING

Chairman John Paul and County Clerk Lee Pleated With Board's Courtesy—Compliments. Exchanged.

Amid general good feeling the January session of the Rock County board of supervisors closed yesterday afternoon shortly after four o'clock. The board has been in session for four days and have transacted a considerable amount of important business.

When the last of the business was disposed of yesterday afternoon, Chairman John A. Paul, took occasion to thank the members of the board for their courtesy and consideration toward him in his capacity as county chairman. The session yesterday completed Mr. Paul's two year term in the office as a new chairman must be elected at the next meeting of the board in April.

The members of the board anxious to reprocure in the matter of bestowing favor, passed a motion requiring an expression by rising to indicate that Mr. Paul's services had met with their utmost approval and that their respect for him continued. County Clerk H. W. Lee also thanked the board for the consideration which had been shown him and his daughter, deputy clerk Miss Mabel Lee, explaining that their friendly attitude toward them had added not a little to the performance of the duties of the office. He stated that during his seven years in the capacity of county clerk he had had no trouble with any member of the county board in that period.

Supervisor Hedges on the part of the board returned the compliment of that body to the county clerk and expressed the wish of the board that Mr. Lee might serve another term as county clerk. Mr. Hedges spoke in his usual pleasant manner and reflected the general good feeling of the board. The session just closed has been a busy one and a large amount of business was transacted. In addition to the reports of all the county officials, important business was done in reference to the county highways and bridges, new equipment being ordered and plans prepared for renewed effort in the matter of road construction. The matter of the training school came before the board and the first report of the new county institution was heard. $2,000 were appropriated for the school for the current year.

MANAGER MYERS HAS BOOKED FINE SHOW

"Louisiana Lou," One of Harry Askin's Productions, Here on Friday Next.

Manager P. L. Myers of the Myers theatre, last evening closed the contract for the production of "Louisiana Lou," the musical production of the Harry L. Askin company of Chicago. As Jamesville has not had a musical show here for some weeks the coming attraction will doubtless be well received. The company comes fresh from Chicago and is said to be a most elaborate road production with excellent principals in the cast. The original company is now playing at the La Salle theatre, Chicago, and the story of how the second company was organized is interesting. According to Advance Agent North, who will here last evening, the story is as follows:

"I want to duplicate for the tour of 'Louisiana Lou' the very excellent company I have playing in the La Salle opera house in that musical comedy," wired Harry Askin, the manager of the La Salle, from Chicago to his New York City agent on Nov. 1, 1911. A letter that followed said:

"When I wired you on the first instant about a travelling cast of 'Louisiana Lou,' and said that I desired to duplicate the original La Salle cast, I did not mean that I wanted you to hunt for actors and singers who simply look like members of the home cast. I mean that I want a duplication of talent. If you can't get an actor or actress as good as any of those in the La Salle, then get a better one!"

It is Mr. Askin's idea that no La Salle opera house play should be sent on tour unless every man and girl in the company is fitted in every way to appear in the La Salle itself. This is his idea, and it is also the general theatrical ideal, of the need to be a musical comedy ability—to be able to make good in the La Salle in Chicago. A player who can please a Chicago La Salle audience can please an audience anywhere else in the world. It is an axiom of the latest day managers of musical comedy and comic opera.

Victor Morley, for example, is the singing actor from London who was brought to this country in 1902 by Henry W. Savage to create the role of the top in "The Prince of Pinea." Mr. Morley afterward was co-starred with Eddie Foy in "The Earl and the Girl" and was for three seasons the star of "Three Twins," playing the role of Tom Stunhope, which he created in the Chicago production in 1908. How highly he is ranked by the season, when Morley was starred by that manager in "The Girl I Love."

Samuel Liebert is a young character actor who is ambitious to succeed along the lines followed by Haydn Warfield, although he is possessed of far greater versatility than Warfield displayed in his younger days as an actor. Liebert, despite his youth, has hit to his credit in both New York City and Chicago. He is not only an actor, but a singer of remarkable power and skill, and to his lot falls one of the most beautiful of ballads, "My Rose of the Ghetto," which has been the whetting bit of "Louisiana Lou" in its long Chicago run.

The two singing ingenues and song-brothers went on tour by Manager Askin are at the very height of their profession. One is Angellina Rose Novato, who has the title role of Louisiana Lou, and is said by many to be the most accomplished singing actress of young girls now on the English-speaking stage. This will be her final season on tour, as she is under a three years' contract to appear in the La Salle. The other is Eleanor Henry, a handsome brunette, who will have the part of Della Fair.

Mac Taylor, who comes here for the first time, is a recruit from vaudeville but is not without experience in musical comedy. She is the low comedienne of "Louisiana Lou" on tour, and the singer of the two most famous new "ragtime" songs of 1911-12, "Now Am de Time," and "The Puritan Prince." Miss Taylor can collect a contract to appear in "The Follies of 1912" in New York next summer with F. Ziegfeld, Jr., in order to get the role of Jennie Wimp in "Louisiana Lou."

Then there are Thomas C. Leary, a singing actor of Irish descent, part; Lew Charley, who has an eccentric French part, for which he was selected from a list of nearly one hundred applicants, all well-known players; W. Powell Martin, a singing and dancing juvenile who has been with the Ziegfeld and Savage shows; and Edward J. Howell, who ought to be recalled as the actor of the German hypnotist in the company headed by Victor Morley in "The Three Twins."

Last of mention, but by no means the least important, is pretty Ethel Stannard, one of La Salle corps of dancing song-brothers. She is making her first appearance of the season in the travelling case of "Louisiana Lou," having gone abroad in June, 1911, to finish her vocal studies.

Bad Case of Grip.
Mrs. Conroy Glines, East Lake, Ala., writes: I had a bad case of a gripple. I tried several kinds of medicine, but could not get relief.
"I tried Peruna and it cured me. I can safely say that it is a fine medicine. I have used it in our family of ten and find it to be good."
Systemic Catarrh Follows Grip.
Mrs. Jennie W. Cecil, Big Cabin, Oklahoma formerly housekeeper for Indiana Reform School for Boys, writes: "Six years ago I had a gripple, which was followed by systemic catarrh. The only thing I used was Peruna and Manilla, and I have been in better health the last three years than for years before."

JANESVILLE Y. M. C. A. DEFEATS LINE CITY

Local Intermediates Given Hard Fight For 19 to 8 Victory Last Night.

In a hard, and scrappy game last night from start to finish the local intermediates were able to take a victory from the Heloit boys by the score of 19 to 8. Judging from past battles in which Janesville had repeatedly run away with the Heloit intermediates it was somewhat of a surprise when the Line City bunch got the ball on the jump when the first whistle sounded and started to run things their own way. Taking into consideration the fact that the visitors were on the average smaller than the Janesville five and evidently not used to playing against a bigger team, the local team put up a creditable fight. In team work and basket throwing they could not come up to their opponents however and committed most of their errors to preventing the Janesville aggregation from scoring.

Glurrry for Beloit played the star game being into the thick of the fight every minute and seemed to be all ways where he was in the way of his opponents. Stewart did excellent work during the first half while Captain Soultman started throughout the game making a total of four baskets. During this half the visitors secured but two points to the local ten.

When the second half opened Beloit came back with such good spirit and fought so hard that they scored six points to Janesville's nine. In this half Dalton took Ryan's place and Kuehlow was put in at right forward in place of Stewart. Heloit's desperate efforts to outplay a superior team during the last half drew the applause of the spectators and made it a very interesting contest to watch. Both teams deserve all the credit which was given them and each intends to defeat the other at the next game which will be played at Beloit.

The line-ups of the teams and scores were as follows:

JANESVILLE	BELOIT
Stewart, Kuehlow R.F.	Munger, Reese
Soultman, Capt. C.	Glurrry
Cunningham, L.F.	Crouch
French, R.G.	Crouch
Ryan, Dalton, L.G.	Root, Broderick
Field goals—Soultman, 5; French, 2; Stewart, 1; Glurrry, 1; Reese, 1; Free throws—D. Cunningham, 2; Glurrry, 2; Munger, 2; Dalton, 1; Soultman, 1. Offends—Hartwell, York.

During the intermission between the halves Physical Director Hartwell introduced a new game which created a great deal of excitement on the part of the spectators. Two of the members acting as horses each carried a rider. Upon the blowing of the whistle they approached each other and attempted to either dismount the opposing rider or pull him and the horse over the foul line. When one side had succeeded in dismounting the other twice, in various undignified ways, amid the applause of the audience, they were declared victors by the referee.

BASERBALL NOTES.

Harry McCormick, the old Chicago-Milwaukee star, has invested in a chicken farm and retired from baseball.

The Jacksonville Club, of the South Atlantic league, has signed Percy Wilder as pitcher. Wilder was Jacksonville's star pitcher last season.

William Lantry Pressley, known to every fan in the Virginia league circuit as "Buck," has signed as manager of the team for the coming season.

Owner Joe Cantillon, of the Minneapolis Club, has made arrangements to have his Millers do their spring training at Hickman, Ky.

With the exception of his one-third interest in the Worcester club of the New England league, Jimmy Collins is out of baseball for the present.

A patent phone battery annunciator and a garage for the use of automobile patrons will be installed in Brooklyn's new $750,000 baseball plant.

Pitcher Doc White has signed with the White Sox for 1912. Doc says he will show the same goods next season that he displayed before the Cubs last fall.

Manager Fred Clarke, of the Pittsburgh team, has signed Bill Irving, who played great ball in the outfield for the Akron O. and P. League team last season.

Boston is the only city in the country that has star ball players as chief executives of its two clubs. Both John M. Ward and James McAleer were great performers on the diamond.

The New York Giants were so much pleased with their trip to Cuba, under the management of Frank Bancroft, that a plan to invade Japan is already being talked of by them.

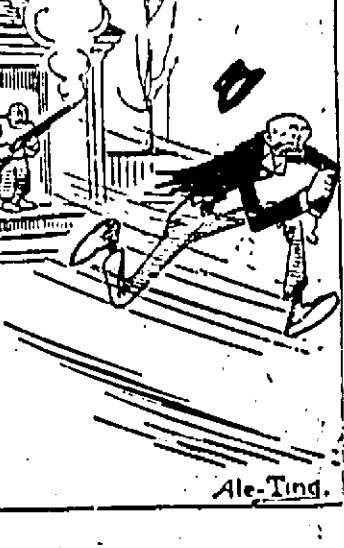

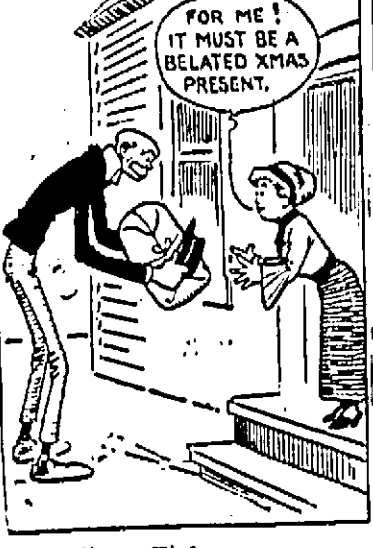

"Scoops" Carey is the first Pittsburgh Pirate to affix his signature to a 1912 contract. "Scoops" says he is well satisfied with the document as it calls for a substantial increase of salary.

In five years as manager of minor league clubs, Harry Wolverton, now manager of the Highlanders, never had a team that finished less than third. He won two pennants, finished second twice and third once.

Hugh McIlwain, former secretary of the Boston Red Sox, is considering the purchase of a half interest in the Jersey City Club of the International league. In case Hugh buys he will be placed at the head of the Skeeter outfit.

The Central Kansas and Kansas State leagues have consolidated, the new organization to be known as the Central Kansas league. Salina, Lyons, Newton, Great Bend, Manhattan, Junction City, Clay Center and Concordia will comprise the circuit.

Covered the Ground. A man who was dunned by a book seller for a book delivered some time before, returned the bill with this written on it: "I never ordered this book. If I did, you did not send it. If I got it, I paid for it. If I didn't I won't."

Mrs. Belle Kohl, 521 High Street, offers a great praise to the United Doctors who have their Janesville Institute in the Hayes Bldg., corner Milwaukee and Main St. Hardly a day passes but what a number of voluntary testimonials are sent these specialists. Mrs. Kohl's testimonial is as follows:

May 20th, 1911.
To the United Doctors:
Dear Doctors—I wish to say a few words regarding the wonderful improvement in my health and past condition since starting your remarkable treatment.
I have had rheumatism since childhood and it has taken out a great deal of the pleasures of life for me. My hands and feet were continually swollen and almost constantly caused me pain. I went to your Institute on April 21st, 1911, and in ten days I was greatly benefited and the swelling reduced and I feel fine and know I will be completely well in a short time.

I state this publicly as I want you to use this letter as other ailing people know where to go for a cure.
Gratefully, MRS. BELLE KOHL,

Mitchell Baby Six

The Logical Compromise Between Big and Little

The Big Buy of the Year

If you're lucky enough to get a Mitchell Baby Six this year, you'll have the edge on your neighbor, no matter what car he owns.

The Mitchell Family is tickled to death with the breezy youngster, and is grooming him to make a run-away race with competition—the high-cost cars not excepted.

With this car in hand, the $4,000 and $5,000 "editions de luxe" don't awe us worth a Lincoln penny, because the Baby Six has got everything and sells for only $1,750. Any car at or near its price must be scratched. Only Big Boys can compete, and they "won't hurt us none."

The only thing we want you to do is to take a look at the Baby Six and a ride in it. If you don't grab it with both hands and refuse to part with it, then you don't want an automobile of any kind. That's a definite alternative.

The Baby Six is a long, low, rakish craft, built so light that it picks its way gracefully over the ground like a hen walking over eggs. It is graceful to a degree and is finished as an aristocratic car ought to be. It comes to you fully equipped, including demountable rims and an extra rim on the side. The rest of the equipment, included in the list price, is a top, Splitford dual ignition, five lamps, generator, horn, jack and complete set of tools.

Spread your think-tank over a wide area of time and you can't think of anything else that ought to go with the car. It's the big buy of the year. Compare it with every offer made by every automobile manufacturer in existence and see where it is lacking. Where else will you get as much for $1,750?

He has a desire to cultivate and develop all of these graces and studiously applies himself to the task, wondering, every now and then, why he is not rewarded.

There are other forces which belong to the silent realm, which are more difficult to apprehend, and one of them is opportunity. It is a mistaken notion that opportunity travels up and down the highways of life with trumpets and banners, or that it wastes any time on door-steps, knocking for admission. The man who finds it is always a seeker, with eyes and ears open, and yet no friend is more alert.

A boy who graduated from the Armour Institute, three years ago, as a mechanical engineer, found ready work with the Corn Products company, and made good. He learned through a friend, a few months ago, that Swift and company, the big Chicago packers, were dissatisfied with their efficiency engineer, and so he sought the opportunity and applied for the place. His small stature and boyish face were against him, and the general manager looked him over with some skepticism, but finally sent for him two weeks later, and after a four-hour grilling decided that the boy knew what he was about. Then he said to him:

"Young man, this office of efficiency engineer is new to our business and the man who has the job now at one hundred dollars a week is a failure, and I am held responsible. I am going to start you at $125 a month, but if you make good, any salary you want will be satisfactory to the company."

The boy went to work and in six days had saved the company $10,000 in one department alone. He is now in Kansas City overlooking the business of one of the branch houses, and there is no question about his final success.

That's the result of going after an opportunity, armed with confidence in ability to meet responsibility, and this is a mighty important factor.

The boys of today, like the boys of preceding generations, are given to the notion that success is more or less a matter of favoritism, and that fate is against them. If they had a wealthy father, or the advantages of a college education, there would be nothing to it.

That's a foolish proposition. The boys who pass through the door of opportunity, and go to the front are not dependent upon a father's wealth, nor a college diploma. The thing that counts is individual merit, and this is the product of self-development. Money and the college may be a help or a hindrance, neither are necessary.

The code of criminal law protects society from crime, to some extent, but the long, unwritten moral code is the safeguard of the home and the bulwark of the nation's strength. These are the silent forces which form the warp and weft of Christian civilization.

The great rank and file of humanity obey the law, not because they fear it, but because they respect it. Ask the average boy why he doesn't steal and he will tell you that he has no desire to possess what don't belong to him. He is truthful because he is honest, and deception to him means a grave misdemeanor.

It is said that the damage done by the cyclone is due to the vacuum created by peculiar atmospheric conditions. That the solidity of the air prevents our houses from collapsing. What is true in the realm of nature is equally true in the domain of morals. When we are enveloped by a wholesome atmosphere the silent forces hold us steady to our course. The playground movement, the Boy Scouts, and other agencies of this nature, are the products of the moral forces which make for public well-being, and people are realizing today, as never before, that the welfare of the new generation is of vital importance.

Opportunity occasionally comes to a city to move forward and occupy advanced ground. We drift along in time-worn ruts until the moral atmosphere becomes tainted, and our boys and girls are contaminated, through no fault of their own, but because of our indifference and neglect.

The commission plan of government, on which we are soon to vote, while not a moral issue, may become the basis of moral reform. There is more or less immorality connected with public business. The loose methods employed, and the political demands to be met, are demoralizing to say the least, and result in inefficient and dishonest service.

A clean and wholesome city government is the basis of public morality and opportunity now presents to the people of Jansville, the chance to secure this sort of an administration. If we are wise enough to take advantage of it, the silent forces which make for progress among right things will find employment, and as a city we will occupy advanced ground.

What we need as a people, is respect for the law; not only the written code, but that larger and more comprehensive volume that is not a matter of record. Shall we move forward?

He gently proposed to her. While scotching across the snow. But things are different nowadays. They go in a different way. And really they do not know what Old-fashioned courtin' means. The feller thinks more of his car than he does of his girl. As they go scotching down the road. And set the dust awhirl. They can't do no lovin' make, for, it's very plain to see. When you are steering into cars. You can't have one arm free.

BLUE MONDAY
 When a feller feels as funny as a hoarse,

When it seems as though his lot could not be worse,

When his color is indigo, And his mind is working slow,

And the bills are comin' due, And his roll's gone up the flue,

And the hired girl has quit, And there's no coal in the pit,

And his corn is raisin' Cain, And he's dizzy with the pain,

And his wife has called him down, And his boss has called him down,

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE WIFE'S DECALOGUE.

First.—Thou shalt have no other husband than him whom thou hast wedded.

Second.—Thou shalt not prefer before the home where thou lodgest thy literary club, nor thy sewing circle, nor thy missionary society.

Third.—Thou shalt not waste thy husband's substance nor his wages on vain apparel and glad raiment while thy husband goeth abroad in patched trousers.

Fourth.—Thou shalt not regale thy back door neighbor, neither thy family, with the vain gossip of the sewing society, nor with the scandal that loth under the tongue of the tattler.

Fifth.—Thou shalt not nag thy husband in his own house. Nor shalt thou utter thy much complainings in his ear, lest unlimply he may prefer the corner saloon to thy company.

Sixth.—Thou shalt not envy thy neighbor's house, nor her automobile, nor her millinery. Nor shalt thou put thy lips because thy husband doth not buy thee a sequin suit.

Seventh.—Thou shalt not serve punch with a stick-in it to the guests of thy reception nor offer high stakes of shuffles at thy whist club, lest thy sons become gamblers or thy sons-in-law drunkards.

Eighth.—Thou shalt not talk deceitfully over the telephone. Nor shalt thou say to the unwelcome guest, "I am so glad to see thee!" nor pass thy fourteen-year-old child at half fare.

Ninth.—Thou shalt not go dressed fit to kill on the streets and slatternly in thine own house, lest thy husband have no comfort in thy appearance. And thou shalt not be gracious and sweet in the church aisle and a shrew in thy home, lest thy children prove deceitful.

Tenth.—Thou shalt not give the teaching of thy child over to thy hand-maiden or to the Sunday school teacher, but thou shalt train up thy child in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. Nor shalt thou permit the fires of thy father's and thy mother's religion to die out on the altar of thy heart, for verily there is no adornment of woman's life that is like to that of spiritual refinement.

THE COMMISSION LAW.

So many inquiries have come to The Gazette relative to just what the law providing for the Commission form of government really is, the following synopsis of the law and its salient features has been prepared by a well known attorney.

Major and commissioners elected by vote of entire city. At first election, mayor elected for six years, one commissioner for four years, one for two years. After first election, one election every two years for six year term. Salary of mayor, $2,500; commissioners, $2,000. Entire time must be devoted to the office.

Every motion, resolution or ordinance must be reduced to writing, and filed, and the votes thereon recorded, and does not go into effect for ten days, so as to permit people to make objections thereto.

Boards of education, fire and police boards, etc., remain as heretofore, except that some number of the city commissioners must be a member of each board.

Any member of such boards may be removed at any time by the commissioners for reasons given, and filed.

Work divided between members, so that each shall be the head of the department allotted to him and be responsible therefor.

Commissioners elect city clerk, city attorney, a comptroller, a treasurer, street commissioner, and assessor, and other officers deemed necessary, and fix the terms and salaries therefor, and may combine any of the offices and may remove any of the officers at any time.

Any ordinance desired by the people may be presented to the commissioners by a petition of twenty-five per cent of the people, and if not passed by them, may be submitted to the voters of the city at any regular or special election.

A recall of the mayor or either of the commissioners may be demanded by petition of twenty-five per cent of the people.

City may return to previous form of government, after six years by a majority vote of the people.

Just a Little Too Much.

A business man called his stenographer and dictated as part of a sentence "qual public institutions." It came to him in typewritten form "cross eyed public institutions." He has a new stenographer.

Must Have Been Her Lucky Day.

In a lot of old papers and magazines that Mrs. T. G. Payson gave to the Salvation army of Jersey City the other day was an envelope containing $225 in bills that Mrs. Payson had overlooked. After 20 men had searched for hours in the army's waste paper pile, Mrs. Payson looking on, the money was found and restored to her.

Doing The Little Things Well

Doing little things well is a characteristic of this store. In recognition of the truism that a little transaction which may seem small to the merchant is often of great importance to the purchaser, our system of buying, selling, delivery, etc., is organized to care for the smallest transactions, in the same satisfactory manner as for the large ones. In merchandising there are many hundreds of little articles for which only occasional calls are made, but when they are wanted it is to fill a need which nothing else can properly do. It is our constant effort to supply these trifles when desired—it accords with our idea of completeness of stock. This same regard for detail is exemplified in the thousand and one ways which go to make up satisfactory ideal merchandising. Likewise in selecting, and pricing merchandise, each article is purchased with a knowledge of what similar things there are in the market, and each price is made as low as or lower than the same or like qualities elsewhere.

The personality and ideals in back of a business are the factors that count.

The difference between first quality in food products and that which is a shade less than first is sometimes, in particular instances, not readily appreciable to one untrained to such decisions. And yet though the difference in profits may be great there is never any question on that score at The Myers.

The many discriminating people who dine Sundays at The Myers know that the cherished reputation for absolute quality which has required several years in the making is maintained with watchful care.

MEN'S BROTHERHOOD

MEETS AT EDGERTON

Society is Entertained at Home of L. W. Persons and Good Discussed.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Edgerton, Jan. 13.—The Men's Brotherhood Club of the M. E. church met last night with L. W. Persons at his residence in the Second ward. The subject for discussion was, "Resolved, That in trial by jury, in civil cases, a majority, and in criminal cases 75 per cent of the jury vote must shall be sufficient for a decision."

The subject being one of importance and ably discussed by G. W. Blanchard in the affirmative and L. K. Gottle in the negative, the meeting proved a highly interesting and instructive one to the large assembly of members of the club. At the close refreshments were served.

Frank Pringle, head member of the department store, spent the greater portion of the week in Chicago buying new goods.

Rev. G. K. Macfarlane is off on a short lecture tour to Troy, Center, Lyons, and La Grange, and will be absent until Monday.

A number of Edgerton poultry fanciers are making preparations for exhibiting their fowls at the Southern Wisconsin show in Janesville next week. Thomas Westlake will show a coop of Rhode Island Reds and White Orpingtons; Theo. and Arthur Clarke each a coop of Buff Orpingtons; Rev. F. W. Schoenfeld, Richard Stricker, H. and D. O'Brien and Francis Curran will also exhibit their fancy birds.

At the M. E. church there will be services both morning and evening, conducted by the pastor, Rev. Schoenfeld.

LAST OPPORTUNITY TO CHANGE ITEMS
OF NEW ASSESSMENT

Property-owners Throng the Offices at City Hall to Protect Against Raising of Valuations.

There is no question that the re-assessment of the city by the agents of the state tax commission, has been most thorough. While many of the large manufacturers have received substantial advances in the small property-owner who will feel its effects worse. One look at the rooms where the assessors are at work in the city hall, the crowds of citizens, the majority of them small property-owners, would convince the most doubting that the re-assessment has been most thorough. This was the last day for making complaints and receiving adjustment of assessment at the hands of the assessors. Monday, the board of review begins its sessions and can not change the assessments without lawful evidence produced before the board showing that the assessors' valuations are too high or too low.

The parties who made the assessment will be in attendance at the meeting of the board, also the supervisor of assessment who, with a member of the board, will pass upon each claim filed for services rendered at the board meeting.

The compensation of persons making the re-assessment, including members of the board of review, shall receive compensation for their services at a rate of $5.00 per day.

The assessors have had a strenuous week of it. They have worked until one o'clock each night to meet the demands of the work and will have to work a good share of tomorrow to complete the matter in hand. One of the men who aided the assessors in determining the local values in the re-assessment is on hand all the time and his work appears to have more weight in determining the valuations fixed than that of the property-owner. The only question that appears to be delicate to him being, "What would you take for your property?" If more than the assessed valuation it is settled in his mind for good and all that the assessment is too low. While it is a trying position for the man in front of the city to be placed in this adjustment of the valuations, they are most courteous in their treatment of the complainants and explain that they have tried to get the true value of the property at a hundred per cent basis.

DECREASE IN NUMBER OF
POLICE STATION LODGERS

Cold Weather Prevents Tramps and Unemployed From Traveling From Place to Place.

The number of men who have been lodging at the police station the last few nights has been considerably less than was the case two or three weeks ago. Tramps and unemployed workmen find it extremely uncomfortable if not dangerous to "beat" their way from city to city in such cold weather and have been content to remain for the time being wherever they could find a warm place to stay and get something to eat. The boarders at Hotel de Ransons have of late not been over-anxious to leave when their terms are up. One old man who was dismissed yesterday morning, returned at evening and requested a lodging for the night. He was very glad to be accommodated.

JANESVILLE GIRL IN THE CAST OF THE PRODUCTION.

Letha M. Dreyer, Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dreyer to Appear Here in Louisiana Lou.

It will be of interest to Janesville people to know that in the cast of "Louisiana Lou" a Janesville young lady, Miss Letha M. Dreyer, will make her initial appearance. Miss Dreyer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Dreyer, until recently resident of the city, now living in Chicago, and has just completed a course of study in a well known dramatic school.

STOCK HOLDERS' MEETING.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Lewis Knitting Company, of Janesville, Wisconsin, will be held in the office of the company on Tuesday, January 23rd, 1912, between three and four o'clock in the afternoon at which time reports of officers will be presented, directors elected and such other business transacted as may come before the meeting.

(Signed)
J. L. WILCOX, Sec.
F. E. LEWIS, Pres.
Janesville, Wisconsin, January 10th, 1912.

Voice of the People, Janesville, 1-12-12.

To the Editor:
I, Letha M. Dreyer, a traveling man who is obliged to make connections at this point, I wish to say through the columns of your paper that conditions which the public is obliged to stand at the St. Paul railway depot are outrageous.

A thermometer in the waiting room of said depot this morning registered a point very close to freezing and the radiators instead of emitting heat, shoot out cold water. If a person has any length of time to wait, his only alternative is to walk a block to the North-Western depot where he can be comfortable in a room the temperature of which is 80 degrees above zero. If the printing of this will have a tendency to better the conditions, I will feel amply repaid, knowing that some other "knights of the trip" will derive some benefit.

The public should be considered and given at least a comfortable place in which to wait.

Respectfully submitted,

A Traveling Man.

Most Fur Year Long With Care.

Most furs are durable, experts say, and will last for a long time if guarded from moths, high temperatures and spring sunbathing. A less durable fur is beaver, as it is taken from young animals. Chinchilla and ermine are also delicate, both in color and texture, and should be carefully treated. Places that make a specialty of storing furs keep them in a uniform winter temperature.

NORTHWESTERN LINE
IS NOW COMPLETED

Link From Sparta to Wyville Opens For Traffic on Monday Next.

Next Monday the Northwestern railway will open to operation the full new line from Milwaukee to Sparta. From Milwaukee to Wyville, about 124 miles, trains have been running for a fortnight or more, passing on to the Omaha system at the latter point, thence onward to St. Paul, Duluth and the farther Northwest. Now the Wyville-Sparta link is all but finished, and it is in this section on which trains will run for the first time Monday.

At Sparta the new projection makes a junction with the Northwest line. The preparation of the bluff at Tunnel City, where the St. Paul road crosses this connection at Sparta, the Northwestern secures a second independent road from Sparta to Chicago, via Wyville, Neerabed, Friendship and Milwaukee. The old line, down through Janesville is characterized by heavy grades which are obliterated on the other route.

It is said by railway officials that no change whatever in passenger service via Janesville is contemplated in consequence of the Sparta-Milwaukee connection. The initial time card for the new line is now being adjusted at the general offices in Chicago. It is surmised that much through freight will be deflected to the more level route.

Meet on Wednesday: The Congressional Brotherhood will hold a reception and dinner on Wednesday next, January 17 at the church parlor.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Twenty Days for Stockman—Hugh Stockman was sentenced to twenty days imprisonment in the county jail this morning by Judge Clifford for being drunk and disorderly. Stockman has been arrested on the same charge once or twice before within the last few weeks and the judge decided that drastic treatment was necessary.

Installed, Officers: Mrs. Florence Spencer went to Milton Junction on Thursday and by special invitation of the W. R. C. of that place installed their officers in the evening.

Condition Continues Serious: The condition of Dr. S. M. John continues serious and appears to be becoming worse. He has been unconscious since nine o'clock last night.

Simplify Sanding Walks: Street Commissioner Wilkins this afternoon made a successful trial of a simplified method of sanding slippery sidewalks. A light sled, drawn by one horse, hauled the sand which was sifted through a sieve on the rear end of the vehicle as it moved forward. The method is much easier and quicker than spreading the sand with a hand sifter as has been the practice.

Chief's Auto Overhauled: The firemen at the West Side station have completed the overhauling and cleaning of Chief Klein's auto. It was found to be in excellent condition. The traces of wear were almost imperceptible and with the scrupulous care that it is given it promises to give many years of valuable service.

A NEW GROCERY
FOR JANESVILLE

The Janesville Tea Company, composed of Mr. H. W. Robb, formerly with the Union Pacific Tea Co., and Mr. Geo. Lamka, formerly in the grocery business at No. 200 South Academy street, will open his doors to the buying public on Monday the 15th at No. 16 South River Street.

A full line of Teas, Coffees and Groceries will be carried by this company, and as the business will be on a strictly cash basis and no wages or salaries are to be made, it is likely to be seen that goods can be handled at a much lower margin of profit than can be done in stores where credit is extended to every one, with all the attendant losses.

Nothing but the best brands of goods will be carried, and they will be sold at the lowest possible prices. A wholesale and retail business will be carried on, and if you are looking to save money and get the best goods, this is the store that should enjoy your patronage.

We wish to say to the readers of this paper, that we will be glad to have you make this store your headquarters, and we will try and make your visit pleasant, as well as profitable.

The Republicans of the First Congressional District, who favor the nomination of Senator Robert M. La Follette as the candidate of the Republican party for President, by the next National Republican Convention, are requested to meet for a conference at the city of Elkhorn, on Saturday, January 20th, 1912, at 1:30 P. M.

The persons whose names are to be placed on the primary ballot as La Follette delegates to the National Convention should be considered, and such other matters as those present may determine. All Republicans who intend to support Senator La Follette are invited.

Gentle Criticism.

On one occasion Hans Richter was present at a concert given by a brother composer, at which the latter performed a long and not particularly interesting work of his own. When the composition came to an end Richter expressed his criticism in a very few words. "Well," he said, "I too had written compositions to make a pile so high," raising his hand three feet from the ground; "but I had learned them!"

SUCCESSFUL TRIAL
OF NEW SNOW PLOW

Twentieth Century Grader Put to Work This Morning on Wall Street With Satisfactory Results.

A Twentieth Century snow-plow and grader made by the Baker Manufacturing company of Chicago, was received by the city yesterday, and given a very satisfactory trial this morning by Street Commissioner Dan Wilkins, clearing snow out of the gutters on Wall street. The tool was ordered subject to a thirty days' trial, by City Engineer G. V. Corcoran, at the direction of the street committee of the common council which provided for the purchase of a snow plow at a recent meeting. It is offered to the city at $110.00, fifteen per cent less the listed price, which is $130, and the freight prepaid.

The new plow can be operated by one man, whereas the old one required two. The blade can be set at any desired height or angle by the levers placed at each end and steel rollers prevent it from catching in or curbing the curb. The machine is carried on two low wheels with sharp flanges on the outside which make them run true and prevent them from side-slipping. The driver has a seat and also a platform on which he can stand.

The new tool is capable of being used for cleaning sidewalks and is provided with a pair of treads so that it can be drawn by one horse. It can also be used for light grading.

Several Wisconsin cities are using the Twentieth Century grader. St. Albans recently placed an order for one, and Oshkosh, Milwaukee, Appleton, Marinette and Manitowish have used them for two seasons. The street commissioner of Superior has used it with good success for cleaning streets, rounding up clay highways, grading race tracks and ball grounds. The commissioner says he saved ten dollars a day by using it instead of the large graders.

EXPLAINED A REASON FOR DISSATISFACTION

Waukegan Man Who Was Writer of Government Lost Office Through Change.

It is interesting to note how the opposition to the commission form of government developed persons complaining over the proposed change. Recently a letter was published written to Mr. Finley by Dan Grady of Waukegan in which the law was pronounced poor. The following letter from a resident of Waukegan, explains why Mr. Grady thought the law a poor one and the change had for the city.

Dear Mr. Sheldon:
While at supper I read the clipping you gave me regarding letter to Mr. Finley from Dan Grady and I beg to correct a statement which I made to you.

Dan is not the one I had reference to—he being the ex-Chief of Police and also ex-Democratic chairman of the Commission—his brother Tom is the saloon man but it makes little difference as Tom is the man that usually tells Dan what to do so that the inference comes from the same source.

The motive and feeling of said Dan at losing his job as Chief of Police is abundantly indicated.

The appointment of him as chief was brought about by his brother, Tom as compensation for his efforts in electing the Democrat Mayor at that time.

Will sure get you some dope for publication when I get home.

Yours truly,

L. HARTER.

The Youth in Politics.

Professor Buckle was in favor of a higher age limit for parliamentary candidates than is at present enforced. "I remain decidedly of opinion," he writes, "that no man ought to open his mouth on the hustings or at public dinner until he is at least 30 years of age. Young men are absolutely incapable of political wisdom; it is the fruit of time and cannot be extemporized from the young ebullience of the brain like a brilliant lyric poem or a dashing novel."

BLANCHE WINTER AND
JOSEPH SHULER WED

Happy Couple United in Marriage This Morning—Will Make Home in Milwaukee.

Miss Blanche Winter of this city was united in marriage to Joseph C. Shuler this morning at the bride's home, 309 North Third street, at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. T. D. Williams performed the ceremony. The strains of the wedding march were played by Miss Loretta Ashby and the bride and groom were attended by Errol Winter, the bride's brother, and Miss May Shuler, the groom's sister. After the ceremony had been performed the guests sat down to the wedding dinner which was in charge of Mrs. Winter, Miss Ashby and Miss Nellie Crocker. Mr. Shuler was formerly the manager of the local branch of the Wisconsin Telephone company, but for some time past has been in the superintendent's office in Milwaukee. The bride and groom left for that city on the two o'clock train where they will make their home at 750 Thirty-sixth street.

FIRST MATINEE OF SEASON TOMORROW

Best Horses in City Will Enter in Races at Gas House Pond Tomorrow Afternoon.

Arrangements have been made for the first matinee of the season at the gas house pond tomorrow afternoon. The best speed horses in the city will be entered in the events and a good program is assured. The ice course is reported in good condition and with favorable weather a good attendance is expected. Among the horses entered will be those owned by John Sheridan, E. J. Schmidley, E. J. Lloyd, John C. Nichols, and others.

Mr. Schmidley and others were driving their horses over the course this afternoon and stated that it was in condition for fast time. Should milder weather prevail it is planned to schedule a number of races during the coming week.

Prominent Eau Claire Attorney Will Address Citizens on Commission Plan.

Attorney R. L. Wilcox, one of the prominent lawyers of the state, whose home is at Eau Claire, will address the mass meeting at the city hall Monday evening at eight o'clock. Mr. Wilcox was very active in the campaign for the establishment of the new system at his home a year ago and will be able to tell some important things regarding the fight for commission government in Eau Claire. A year's experience in the northern city will be briefly reviewed by the speaker and a rousing meeting is anticipated.

Do You Know?
A professor of anatomy at Yale College was asked by a boy the other day why boys were not born with 10 toes on each foot, and the wise man couldn't answer. Most men, after they got to be men, are satisfied with five toes on a foot, but a boy really ought to be allowed 10. With only five on a foot he now slips back while climbing a tree to steal apples. We move that the extra toes be provided before another summer.

MANY VARIETIES OF ORANGES NOW HERE

Oranges Are Now in Their Prime and Are Selling up to 45c—Potatoes Freeze.

Oranges are now on the market in all grades and sizes from the smaller varieties selling at 20c up to the extra large which are bringing as much as 45c a dozen. They are just now coming into the best part of the season and are probably at their very best. While the larger, fine looking fruit are more expensive it is very often the case that the smaller size is the sweeter though this is not always so by any means.

Several of the grocers have had their potatoes freeze up where they had them stored in the cellar and as it is still too cold to ship them they will probably be short until the weather changes and the long expected January thaw takes place. They are selling as high $1.00 in Chicago these days where there is a shortage but have not gone above a dollar in the local markets. Many of the farmers are reported to have had their potatoes frozen which being true would seem to point toward a rapid famine next spring and summer.

The markets for today have no other changes beside the ones mentioned and are quoted as follows:

Vegetables.
Carrots—2c lb.
Parsnips—2c lb.
Pointons—90c@1.00.
Spanish Onions—8c lb.
Sweet Potatoes—8c lb.
Cauliflower—20c.
Green Peppers—5c each.
Squash—15c@20c.
Yellow onions—4c lb.
Cabbage—6c@10c a head.
Lettuce—5c bunch.
Head Lettuce—10c.
Dwarf Celery—18c@20c bunch.
Golden Heart Celery—8c stalk.
Vegetable Oysters—5c lb.
Spinach—8c@15c lb.

states. The Appalachian region and lower Mississippi valley has also suffered a sudden drop. Temperatures of 22 to 24 degrees prevail along the Gulf coast from Louisiana westward. A barometric depression still prevails in the vicinity of Florida, and has served to keep the temperature high over the peninsula.

The disturbance in the Northwest has advanced to the Dakota. It is causing a general rise in the temperature throughout the central states, and is attended by brisk to high winds, and sleet or snow in the northern Rockies. It will pass over this vicinity or somewhat to the northward this afternoon and tonight, and be attended by snow and higher temperatures. Clearing and colder weather will follow by Sunday night.

Liberty and Matches.

It would not seem that the word "Liberty," which we are all so immensely proud of as the slogan of this country, could be tangled up with the match which a man strikes to light his cigar, or a woman to start the gas range.

But it is, and rather oddly, too. And public opinion is needed to see that this liberty which has become entangled with the match is the liberty of which we boast, and not a perversion of it. And herein, women can help. For women have a power today, especially when they get together and are in earnest, in forming public opinion, which should not be underestimated.

Without going into technical details, it is sufficient to say that phosphorus, when used in the making of matches causes among the workers a terrible and incurable disease known as "phossy jaw." Many of these workers are women and children. Need more be said to enlist the interests of women?

Up to the present time, the inexpensive substitute for phosphorus was controlled by a patent, and used by the firm who owned the patent. So that the manufacturers who used phosphorus had something to be said on their side.

But now in the interests of humanity, this firm owning the patent has cancelled it, and the use of the substitute for phosphorus is free to all. It was a magnificent act of humanitarianism on their part, and it cannot be too highly commended. It shows too, how the feeling of brotherhood is growing. And it would be thought that all firms making matches would immediately avail themselves of the opportunity to stop the use of the disease-producing phosphorus. But they have not done so. They are still using this death-dealing product.

A Bulletin of the United States Bureau of Labor points out that in the leading countries of Europe, the governments have come to the aid of both workers and manufacturers, by requiring all manufacturers to discontinue the use of the poison.

But in this, the land of liberty, we are failing to protect our workers, and other countries which many of us consider not so advanced as us in the matter of government, are far ahead of us on this point.

This is indeed the land of liberty; but when liberty is being perverted, it is time for us to take a hand and prevent its going the road that means really destruction for the ideals it stands for.

If humanitarian considerations will not prevent the use of phosphorus by those in whose hands the decision as to whether it shall be used or not, rests; then law should step in, as it has in countries abroad and prohibit its use. A bill is now in Congress to take up the matter, and public opinion should be so aroused, that a law will be passed to prevent the further use of this deadly substance.

And women by their voice in the home, by their clubs and organizations, even in some states by their votes, can help. And they should do all possible to remove this scourge from the lives of women and children working in match factories.

SOME SIMPLE DESSERTS.

Often the word simple does not imply inexpensive, as a simple gown may be one of much cost; a simple dish may be of few ingredients yet quite expensive. The following is both cheap and simple when eggs are plenty:

Sponge Pudding.—Stir a third of a cup of flour into a cup of milk until smooth. Set in boiling water and cook. When cool add a half teaspoon of melted butter and the yolks of three eggs well beaten, with a fourth of a cup of sugar. Cut and fold in the whites of the eggs beaten stiff, and after flavoring to taste set in a pan of water and bake twenty minutes. Serve with hard sauce. Prepare the sauce by creaming four tablespoonsful of butter and add a half cup of sugar and a teaspoonful of boiling water; flavor with grated nutmeg and chill before serving. Powdered sugar makes the sauce more smooth and creamy.

Cavendish Pudding.—Put a cup of stale bread crumbs to soak in a pint of cold milk, let stand for half an hour. Beat two eggs slightly, put in a layer of bread crumbs in a greased mold, then some fried fruit and bits of butter; mix a half cup of sugar and some of the milk and the eggs with a little flavoring and pour over, steam one and a half hours. Serve with any desired liquid sauce. Lemon is particularly good.

Fig Cakes.—This is a most delicious dessert and sounds extravagant, but will not prove so. Take a half a pound of pulled figs, steam them until tender in a sieve over water; cut a small opening in the side and fill with chopped salted almonds. Prepare a sauce of a half cup of orange juice, a tablespoonful of lemon juice and a half cup of sugar; when hot drop in the figs and simmer until thoroughly cooked. Serve cold with unweetened whipped cream.

When serving hot ginger bread for dessert, apple sauce is a fine accompaniment, or swayed cream cheese mixed with a little grated rich American cheese and molded in green peppers, then when well chilled slice in small slices and serve with the ginger bread or with crackers and coffee as dessert.

Roll Cakes in Fashion Again. Best Kinds of Filling.

By Alice E. Whitaker.

Usually at this season the cook tries to use as few eggs as possible but eggs and butter are both so high that it is a question which makes a cake cost the most. Roll cakes have a revival and they must always be of the sponge variety because the cake must have a certain amount of elasticity to hold together as it is rolled which a butter cake does not have.

A homemade roll cake light and spongy with a rich filling, is very different from the hard leathery cake bought at the bakery and always spread with raspberry jam of doubtful purity. A roll cake properly made cannot be sold for ten or fifteen cents and no complaint should be made of what is received for that small sum.

The roll cake must be baked in a pan large enough to have the batter no more than one-quarter inch thick and this must be pushed well into the corners and sides to prevent thin places that will bake hard and break in rolling. Although the roll cake is an egg cake it should not be baked too slowly for that makes it watery and crisp and that sort of a cake does not roll easily.

Have a clean piece of cheese cloth or an old napkin laid on the cake rack, turn the pan onto it and leave until the cake drops on the cloth. Spread the filling and roll up while hot and pliable. Bring the cloth round it and pin until the cake cools and is firm.

The filling used was originally a sweet jelly but a creamy chocolate icing or a lemon butter are all good changes from the jelly. Beat the jelly with a fork to make it spread well. A filling must be soft, else it will make the cake mushy, not hard like an icing for it will break away when the cake is cut in slices.

A lemon jelly filling is made from the grated yellow rind of a lemon, one teaspoon of water, one-half cup of sugar, one beaten egg and one level tablespoon of butter. Cook ten minutes and use when nearly cool.

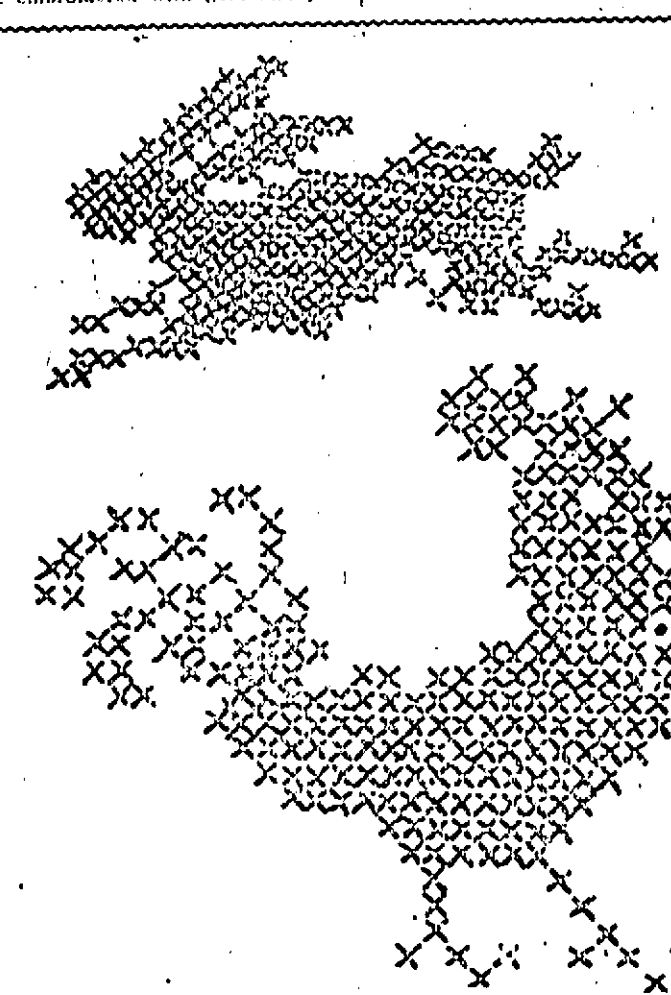

One well tried recipe is as follows: Beat the yolks of four eggs until very light, add one cup of sugar and beat again, add a few grains of salt, one and one-half cups of flour sifted with two level teaspoons of baking powder, one tablespoon of cold water, one-half teaspoon of vanilla and beat the whites of four eggs beaten stiff.

For another roll cake beat three eggs light, add one cup of sugar and beat again. Sift one cup of flour with

QUAINT BONNETS.

The modern belle looks a good deal like her grand-mamma at the same age in her straight, short little frock, her shoulder, and her little bonnet, hiding around her face in front. The bonnet is over pink silk and the trimming of black velvet embroidered with gold and pink.

CROSS STITCH MOTIF FOR TOWELS AND CHILDREN'S PINAFORES. Birds and rabbits are much used for cross stitch motifs on children's pinafores, towels and bureau scarfs. The work may be done by laying a piece of canvas over the linen and counting the stitches of the design on the squares of canvas, then when the design is filled in with cross stitch the canvas is pulled out, thread by thread. A neater way is to transfer the pattern to your linen with impression paper. All the stitches which the pattern to your linen should be worked first and then crossed by those which run in the opposite direction. A good cotton to use is the long skein mercerized cotton No. 5, which is twisted very tightly.

Two level teaspoons of baking powder and add to the sugar and egg also one teaspoon of cold water and one-half teaspoon of vanilla flavoring. Beat hard for a minute, spread in the pan and bake.

A soft chocolate icing is made from two squares of chocolate melted to which add the beaten yolks of five eggs one cup of sugar and one cup of milk. Cook together until thick, cool and flavor with a teaspoon of vanilla. This will spread well in a roll cake.

Charles Durham, Lovington, Ill., has succeeded in finding a positive cure for bed wetting. "My little boy wet the bed every night clear thro' on the floor. I tried several kinds of kidney medicine and I was in the drug store looking for something different to help him when I heard of Foley Kidney Pills. After he had taken them two days we could see a change and when he had taken two thirds of a bottle he was cured. That is about six weeks ago and he has not wet in bed since." Badger Drug Co.

A New White Race. Even now there are vast numbers of Japanese who cannot be distinguished in complexion from the so-called white races.—Japan Times.

Turn to Wooden Flooring. The use of wooden flooring is on the increase in Italy, taking the place of the former extensive demand for marble, tile and cement. Oak, larch and pitch pine are mostly adopted, and but little, if any maple, birch or beech has been brought to the market.

New York Uses Much Water. In the whole world there are only about 1,500,000 people. An inch of rain on our watershed normally would give two gallons of water for every man, woman and child on the surface of the earth. Put it another way: If every man, woman and child on the face of the earth should walk up to the lakes, reservoirs, etc., which hold New York city's water supply, and each pour in two gallons of water, it would not be enough to last that city ten days.

CONSUMPTION NOT CURED BY KILLING THE GERM.

"Unless improved dwellings, better food and other living conditions are provided for the masses, the white plague must persist," says Dr. Beverly Robinson. Much of what is written about consumption is vain and illusory. The really healthy person would require a long, continuous exposure to contract the disease. Even with the best conditions it will require many years to be rid of the heredity effects that have taken generations to produce." Dr. Walsh, (Technical World) goes further in saying that "the hope of a cure has had its bad effects; prevention must be turned over to a properly informed public. Avoiding the germ is not the way to avoid consumption, nor can it be cured by killing the germ. We must go beyond the effect or at least the incident of the disease and improve the supply of air, of nutrition and the mental condition, and when the disease is allowed to develop in those who are predisposed to it by heredity, these same conditions must be considered, not merely the destruction of the germ by some drug." These principles are recognized in the modern sanatorium treatment of consumption and they should be more emphasized in education for prevention, which is better than cure.

ADD TO YOUR PERSONAL ADORNMENTS

By the Use of Newbro's Herpicide.

A pretty woman may enhance her beauty and a plain woman become good looking by the proper care of her hair.

New hair, pretty hair, growing on the head is nature's greatest beautifier.

The kind of hair which always makes us look the second time, follows the use of Newbro's Herpicide, and is possible for every woman.

Regular applications of Herpicide kill the hair destroying dandruff germ, keep the hair from coming out and add to it that luxuriance, snap and lustre which are essential to hair beauty.

Newbro's Herpicide is the Original scalp prophylactic. All other hair remedies claiming to kill the dandruff germ are simply trying to trade upon the reputation of genuine Herpicide.

Applications may be obtained at good barber shops and hair dressers.

VALUABLE ADVICE

Janeville Citizens Should Profit By the Following Statement.

Don's Kidney Pills cured this Janeville resident. Their merit was shown—the story told. Now comes further evidence. The testimony is confirmed. The remedy was tested—the cure lasted.

Could Janeville residents demand stronger proof? It's Janeville testimony. It can be investigated.

C. E. Lester, 1017 Wheeler street, Janeville, Wis., says: "For several months I was in poor health and my system seemed to be filled with uric poison. My back ached intensely and I had but little strength or energy. I decided to try a good kidney medicine, and as I had often heard Don's Kidney Pills highly spoken of, I got a supply of the People's Drug Co. It did not take this remedy long to bring me entire relief. At that time I publicly told of my experience and during the years that have since passed, I have not changed my high opinion of Don's Kidney Pills. Whenever I use this remedy, it does good work."

The Evening Chit-Chat BY RUTH CAMERON

LAST Sunday at church there sat across the aisle from me a broad shouldered, clean shaven, fine looking six footer,—a man of about twenty-two or three years of age—the kind of young man you often see in a college football team, but not so often in a church.

I believe that there is an idea prevalent among young men and boys that it is not manly to go to church—that religion and church going are things that should be left to women and old men, and that a religious man is usually a weak and ineffectual person.

Men and boys, let me tell you something. I am not ashamed to say that I looked again and again with great pleasure at that young man. And I want to assure you that I never saw anyone look so fine and manly as he did, as he threw back his head and lifted up his strong bass voice in the hymns, or sat listening attentively to the sermon, or bowed his head to receive the benediction.

Men think that a woman admires the dare-devil, irreligious, skeptical, free-thinking type of man, and dislikes the church-goer.

I suppose some women do. Just as to a few young girls, the half-grown youth with a cigarette or cigar jutting out of his mouth, seems more manly than the clean-shaven, fresh-looking boy who does not stunt his growth by smoking prematurely.

But I believe that the right kind of woman is overjoyed to find a man who can add to qualities of manliness and strength, the even finer qualities of a sense of reverence and worship, and the healthy humility that comes from recognition of a vastly greater power than himself or his kind.

A young girl wrote to me the other day—

"There are a great many boys in the world, and I have liked all of them I have ever known, but when one finds a boy who isn't afraid to be a Christian, or at least respects Christian principles, it makes a big difference. Last week I attended a vaudeville performance, and sitting next to me was a boy about seventeen or eighteen years old, a stranger to me. Part of one act was rather questionable in character, but enough people laughed to make the room pretty noisy. I looked out of the corner of my eye at the boy next me, and he wasn't laughing. Before I had seen his face I hadn't thought so much about the act, but then I wanted to stand up and tell everybody there that I hadn't laughed just then."

That shows the impression a man who is not afraid to have respect for Christian principles and to show it makes on a girl. And I believe this girl expresses the feelings of a great many girls and women.

The desire to appear to be even less religious than we are, the tendency to feel a strange shame over any emotion, and to hide it just as deeply as we can, is a sheer but almost universal quirk of the American character.

But down in that deep where we keep our finer selves I am sure that almost all women admire as I do, a big manly man who has a sense of reverence and a respect for Christian principles, and isn't afraid to show that he has, both by religious observance and in any other ways open to him.

Am I not right?

CHILDREN'S GIFTS.

IT IS not wise to waste regrets because of mistakes made this Christmas, but while the object lesson is fresh in mind, it is not a bad thing to consider what we will do next time. The aggregate expenditure of money in Christmas gifts must be enormous. It brings great joy to children, and how its pleasure for grown-ups. But that giving has grown burdensome, and is often unprofitable and extremely wasteful, is apparent to the most casual observer. If we would preserve the true Christmas spirit and keep its peace and cheer, we must do some thinking.

This was recognized at an educational exhibit of best gifts for children at Teachers' College in New York City. The collection was not large, for each gift had to pass the test of pleasing children and promoting their welfare; nor were the gifts novel in character, the tried and proved having been selected rather than the latest and most ingenious offerings of the shops. The principle laid down for playthings, was that they should be durable, hygienic and as far as possible aesthetic. Emphasis was placed on those that encourage play in the open air, such as football, skates, and sleds, and on those that stimulate children to reproduce in play the domestic and industrial life about them, like housekeeping utensils and sets of tools.

In the selection of pictures, the consideration was the interest of the children in the subject, and the art value of the treatment. The exhibit included Japanese and other prints in color, and photographic reproductions of masterpieces. The books were selected chiefly on the basis of literary and artistic merit, but included those on nature subjects and games and occupations.

Many articles were not excluded, but the idea was to get, if need be, one good gift rather than a number of perishable ones of transitory interest.

EMPHASIZE QUALITY IN RAISING BIRDS

NON-PRODUCERS IN FLOCK LOWER THE STANDARD—ARE DETRIMENT TO BREEDING.

A DEFINITE PURPOSE

Should Be in the Mind of Every Poultry Raiser Who Expects to Succeed—Rigid Culling—Quality Counts.

By F. J. HOLT.

While visiting the Madison poultry show a fellow fancier told me that he had about twenty birds just like the one we were looking at and that he would ship them out to the common market next week. A little curious to know his reason I asked him why. He said that he had used the trap nest and he had found these birds like most of the time. They were of no value to him as breeders, and he would not sell them to anyone else because the buyer would not be getting a square deal.

These birds looked healthy he said, but as he was breeding for a heavy egg producing strain he could not use the fowls. Number of eggs was the first consideration and quality of feathers the second. The result of such attention is the bringing to a high standard of perfection of the laying quality of the flock. If he had not used this method his flock might have become a very poor laying lot and no one could convince the man that it is possible to bring the whole flock close to the 200 eggs per hen record.

A Definite Purpose

Every breeder must have some definite purpose in mind when he goes into this work. If it is eggs and that alone, he must feed and breed with that one thing in mind. If the show room is the goal, that is the vital subject for study. Of course both may go along but it will take more study and time than the one. Did you know it to be a fact that 60 per cent of all show females will not produce enough eggs to pay for the feed it takes for that one bird unless the eggs are sold for a high price for hatching purposes?

At the recent Chicago show the Turkey Bros. showed a number of birds in the open cages as well as in the pens and most of the ribbons. At the same time they had a pen of seven birds entered in the laying contest and these seven laid the most eggs for the week of any seven entered in that contest. These birds were Silver Wyandottes and they had S. C. White Leghorns, White Wyandottes, Columbian Wyandottes and Rhode Island Whites opposed to them. You will notice that most of the entries were of Wyandottes, but you will find that these breeders are making a specialty of egg production as well as show birds. That is the reason that many of the others who showed did not enter into this contest, they were raising for the fancy and in a great many cases to the detriment of their breed.

Breed Your Own Birds

Many men are culling themselves breeders of fowls today when in fact they are anything but that. True they increase the size of their flock, but when it comes to the quality they have nothing to show for it. In this work as in all others you must produce better quality each year or you will soon have to give up the breeding of fowls.

The man who always has to buy his show birds will never be able to reach the top and we hope that the day is not far distant when the premium lists will have special classes for the poultryman who has bred their own birds. This will then eliminate the competition of one who is studying his birds and gradually getting them better, from those who may have plenty of wealth and buy birds for some particular show at a big price.

At the recent Chicago show there were any number of birds purchased at from $100 to $500 per hen that did not win a place. These birds had been especially prepared by an experienced poultryman and sent direct to the show room and the man who bought them never saw them until the birds were shipped to him after the show was over. That kind of competition does not show the true ability of the man whose bird may win. It is far better to breed your own birds or at least to raise them from eggs you buy if you care to learn anything about the fowl.

Right Culling Important

Right culling is the important thing. Every bird that looks well will not breed well. A great deal is not an easy bird to find. Few breeders know when they have one in their flock. Such birds are not revealed by slip shed methods but the careful eye of the fancier is necessary to know this. If you have such a bird in your flock do not part with him for you may not be able to replace him. Do not be afraid to cull out that beautiful bird because he is pleasing to the eye. Were you to visit our place I can show you a R. C. W. Leghorn cock bird with comb practically gone and having a bill that is slightly crossed. He is anything but a handsome fellow but were we to keep breeding Leghorns no man could buy him away from us. We know his breeding and we are not afraid to use him again. If you find that a certain mating gives you good returns this year do not change it in the least for the next season. Many want to try the new but do not discard a pen that has given you such satisfactory results.

Many breeders are now selling stock only and using all the eggs from their flock for their own hatchings. This gives them a better chance to satisfy every customer for you then have a chance to see just what you are sending out and nothing but the good birds will ever leave the place. In selling eggs you are bound to sell some from which culls will come and your buyer may become discouraged. Everybody in the poultry business runs across the man who wants to hatch 15 chicks from 15 eggs and becomes a hater of himself and everyone else if he fails. There are a great many sales to the egg business and the breeder gets the worst of it in most cases.

Ask Questions

When you are going up and down the aisles of the show ask questions about this breed and that. Find out why one is better than the other. Make a request of the breeder to tell you why one of his birds is inferior to another and have him explain why he mates birds together. This show is a place where the public may become educated in the various points of raising chickens if they would but take the pains to find out. The officers of the association have this foremost in mind in arranging the show. Remember this is not run for those who have charge of it but for you.

Do not expect that the men who have charge take all of their time answering your questions for they are busy men. Did you ever try to be show secretary, superintendent, or the like? If you will find that they are very patient considering what they must go through. But the man who is there with his birds is glad to tell you just what you are anxious to find out. Go to that show room determined to learn something and do not be backward about asking all the questions that may come to your mind.

NORTH SPRING VALLEY

North Spring Valley, Jan. 13.—Intense cold weather for the past ten days has caused much inconvenience to farmers. Some complain of cellar freezing. Telephone lines have been cut out of order, the frost breaking the wires. The temperature ranged from twelve to twenty six below zero.

One, McCullin lost a valuable cow last Wednesday.

Dr. Shuster of Evansville was a caller at T. M. Harper's the first of the week.

The attendance at the Corners school has been small recently on account of several cases of chicken pox.

Albert Palmer was a Brodhead caller Tuesday.

Mrs. John Rossiter died at her home in South Magnolia Thursday morning. Her health had been poorly for some time. She leaves a husband and one son Westley Rossiter, who have the sympathy of the community in their sad bereavement.

WARM WAVE HAS NOT STRUCK JANEVILLE

Foster's Bureau Predicts Relief Beginning Today And Milwaukee Office Forecasts Slight Respite.

Copyrighted 1911, by W. T. Foster. Last bulletin gave forecasts of the disturbance to cross central Jan. 13 to 17; warm wave 12 to 16; cool wave 15 to 19. This storm is expected to cause rains south and snow north; temperatures averaging below normal with stormy rough weather. The tendency of general temperatures will be upward and warmer weather is expected to follow. This will be one of the two most stormy periods of January.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Jan. 17; cross Pacific slope by close of the 18th; great central valleys 19 to 21; eastern sections 22. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Jan. 20; great central valleys 22; eastern sections 21.

Some, but not much rain or snow may be expected on front part of this disturbance and then very little or no precipitation for a week. Temperatures will be higher than for two weeks past and cool wave following is not expected to develop severe cold. All indications are that this disturbance will bring us to warmer and dryer weather not best for winter grain because of thawing and dry freezing or freezing and thawing the moisture out of the soil.

Of course, any damage that may occur to winter grain will not become apparent until the spring growth makes its appearance, therefore winter grain will probably appear to be doing well till near the first of May. Conditions of winter grain cannot effect the market before the first of May because the big speculators will absolutely control markets till weather effects on the winter growing crops are clearly seen.

For these reasons there is great advantage to those who may be able to see in advance what effects future weather may have on growing crops. One planter in Texas wrote me that he had on hands 850 bales of cotton and asked whether he should sell or keep the cotton. I get hundreds of such letters. That planter's cotton last June would have been worth about $50 a bale; now it is worth about $15 a bale, showing a loss of about $35,000. A bad crop of cotton next year might bring back his loss $30,000. These are questions of very great importance in reference to all crops and these are problems I am trying to solve and on which I have expended all the money I could get and thirty-six years of hard work and study. Yes, the problem is being solved.

Another disturbance will reach Pacific coast about Jan. 23; cross Pacific slope by close of the 24th; great central valleys 25 to 27; eastern sections 28. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about Jan. 23; great central valleys 25; eastern sections 27. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about Jan. 24; great central valleys 28; eastern sections 26.

This will cause threatening stormy, warm winter weather but very little precipitation. This winter thaw will not benefit the winter grain.

Some Feb. 19 an unusually large group of sunspots is expected to appear on the extreme western side of the sun and it will be due to come into view on the eastern limb about March 4. About that time, Feb. 18, severe storms may be expected on various parts of the earth. Sunspots are not plentiful at this time and therefore, it is the more difficult to correctly forecast them. This group of spots will probably organize south of the sun's equator, or, as we look at the sun, a little above its center.

HOW TAXES WILL BE AFFECTED BY CHANGE

What is True in Eau Claire Can Be Considered Possible to Duplicate in Janesville.

In answer to the complaints that the commission form of government would tend to increase taxes it is interesting to note the opinion of former Attorney General L. M. Sturdevant on what it has accomplished in Eau Claire in this connection. Mr. Sturdevant is in a position to know what can be done in this direction and says:

"Commission government is proving a success in Eau Claire. The commission actually reduced taxes nearly 20 per cent, and Eau Claire is getting a sound business administration. More street improvement work was done last year than ever before. We are paying less in Eau Claire to run the city and we are getting more for our money."

ORFORDVILLE

Orfordville, Jan. 13.—Henry Sveom of Brodhead, was a business caller in the village on Friday.

Oscar Toppen is reported very ill. The funeral of Mr. Megordon will take place Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Goldie Lindy of Mount Horeb is here visiting relatives and friends. Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Cole were Janesville shoppers Friday.

Mrs. Florence Patten Rossiter of Magnolia died Thursday morning. Funeral services were conducted today.

Mrs. Harry Silverthorn is quite sick with pneumonia. The Fellowship class will meet at the M. E. parsonage Friday evening.

ALBANY

Albany, Jan. 13.—Dr. Dorne of Milwaukee, visited his brother-in-law, Dr. S. T. Rives, last Wednesday and Thursday. While here he, with local physicians, performed an operation on J. D. Ayres, taking a tumor from under his right arm. The patient is doing nicely.

Severe cold weather still continues. Rev. and Mrs. C. D. Mayhew visited in Brodhead yesterday.

Mrs. Floyd Hunt spent Tuesday night in Brodhead.

The Albany Electric Light and Milling Company are now in a position to supply the trade in this part of the state with their popular line of mill product. This mill and equipment is one of the most modern in this region.

Mrs. Arthur Johnson of Brodhead, visited her parents Mr. and Mrs. T. M. Corver over Sunday.

The funeral of the late Evan Pryce of Boulder, Colo., was held from the Baptist church Sunday afternoon. Rev. C. D. Mayhew officiating. Mr. Pryce was born May 29, 1834, in North Wales. For many years he was a resident of Albany, moving to Boulder in 1895. His wife and son Elmer and daughter-in-law, arrived here with the remains Saturday evening.

The two weeks' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Spangler was buried last Friday afternoon. Rev. Mayhew officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Toby and two children of Colton, S. D., visited with friends and relatives here during the week. Mrs. Toby was formerly Miss Mattie Colton.

There will be a basket ball game between Albany and Evansville Friday night. Saturday night a double game between Albany and Monroe high school boys and girls.

The little two year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Francis died last Thursday afternoon. The funeral was held in the English settlement church Saturday.

The long continued cold weather has caused a shortage of coal, but a supply is expected within twenty-four hours.

The firm of Spangler and Gethompson are putting up a good quality of ice averaging about 12 inches in thickness.

The train service on this branch has been much interrupted the last week owing to the cold weather conditions.

GAINVILLE CENTER

Gainville Center, Jan. 12.—The Helpere Union will meet Thursday, Jan. 18, with Mrs. Wilbur Andrew. The ladies are requested to come early and bring their thimbles.

Henry Harwick expects to spend next season working in Michigan. He will go home with his cousin who is visiting here.

With the thermometer ranging around 20 and 25 degrees below zero it keeps people busy trying to keep collars and homes warm. Some have put stoves in their collars.

Mrs. A. P. Townsend, Mrs. Wilbur Andrew and Blanche Townsend were Evansville shoppers Wednesday.

Lizzie Bennett transacted business in Evansville Wednesday.

A. P. Townsend is kept quite busy these days collecting taxes.

MILTON

Milton, Jan. 13.—Pres. Daland supplies the pulp at the Congregational church Sunday morning.

Miss M. Martenson has gone to her home at Dell Rapids, South Dakota. Big poultry show here week after next. Get in line with your show birds. If you don't keep chickens go and see them and get the poultry fever.

W. C. T. U. meets with Mrs. H. R. Osborne Monday.

Miss Ayner of Delavan, is visiting her sister, Mrs. E. Hudson.

Arthur W. Elso is on the sick list again.

18 to 20 below zero is getting to be rather monotonous.

Messrs. W. K. Davis and P. C. and H. C. Rhodon attended the Madison Poultry show yesterday.

Man and the Horse.

Man, the highest type of animal, dates back but a million years or to a time known as the Miocene age. The same period saw the horse in a state of development.

PORTER

Porter, Jan. 12.—Michael McGinley of Denver, Colo., is visiting at the home of his uncle, Neil McGinley.

Albert Julketh shipped a carload of sheep to Chicago Wednesday.

Robert Foxenholm who has been spending a few weeks at the home of his uncle, E. White, returned home on Wednesday.

Judd McCarthy, C. W. McCarthy, William and Edward Kerin, were in Evansville Thursday.

Miss Maria Knight who has been suffering with tonsillitis, is gaining rapidly.

Misses Nell, Margaret and Jennie McCarthy spent a few days last week with relatives at McFarland.

William Young is spending a few days with James McCarthy.

Mrs. B. L. Earle was an Evansville visitor on Friday.

A number of the farmers here are making preparations to fill their ice houses while the ice is plentiful and before the January thaw arrives.

A dancing party is to be held at Tolles Hall on Friday night in honor of Miss Thunkinson.

Burned and Itched So He Could Hardly Stand It. Tried Medicines, Etc., Nearly 3 Years. In Eternal Misery. Started Using Cuticura Remedies. Now Has No Sign of Skin Disease.

"My troubles began some in the summer in the hottest weather and took the form of small eruptions and itching and a kind of smarting pain. It took me mostly all over my back and kept getting worse until finally my back was covered with a mass of pimples which would burn and itch so much that I could hardly sit or lie down. This condition was a solid mass of big ones which would break open and run. My underclothing would be a clot of blood."

"I tried various blood medicines and other remedies and was not getting any better. It seemed I was in eternal misery and could not sleep on my back or lean back on a chair. I was finally given a set of the Cuticura Remedies by my doctor. I started using the Cuticura Remedies and inside of two weeks I could see and feel a great relief. I kept on using Cuticura Soap, Ointment and the (resolvent), and in about three or four months my back was nearly cured and I felt like a new being. Now I am in good health and no sign of any skin disease and I am fully satisfied that Cuticura Remedies are the best made for such cases. I will always recommend them to anyone who is troubled with skin diseases. I would not be without them." (Signed) W. A. Armstrong, Corbin, Kan., May 26, 1911.

For more than a generation Cuticura Soap and Ointment have effected cures of the skin and scalp of infants, children and adults. Although sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each, with 32-p. book on the skin, will be sent free on application to Cuticura Drug & Chem. Corp., Dept. 274, Boston.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janeville Gazette, Jan. 13, 1872.—The secretary of state says that so far as our relations to Spain is concerned, the sky is clear, everything serene. There is every disposition on the part of Spain to apologize when any outrage is committed.

Several leading Germans are in Washington to inaugurate a movement in favor of the Administration, and to counteract the efforts of Schurz to array the German element of the Republican party against Grant.

A Nebraska legislature has passed a bill recalling the constitutional convention. The convention has framed one constitution and adjourned sine die. The constitution was rejected by the people and it is generally believed that they can legally reconvene.

Mammoth Eagle—A large gray eagle measuring seven and one half feet from tip to tip, was exhibited on Main street today. It was captured near Albany by Albert Holmes. Money Orders—Number of money orders issued at the Janeville post-office for the week ending Jan. 13th, 1912, amount $132.93. Number paid 68; amount $1377.91.

New Wholesale Grocery—F. S. Eldred and D. C. Wheeler contemplate opening a wholesale grocery in the new building just erected on West Milwaukee street. Mr. Eldred will start for New York within a month to purchase goods for the proposed establishment.

Trains Too Late—The irregularity of the northern mails is annoying and provoking. Three or four days pass without a paper from La Crosse. Then suddenly the mails gush forth a stream of Democratic and Leaders to be followed by another drought. We note that the civil service reformers investigate the railroad postal system in this state and not by squandering their time on innocent Washington clerks.

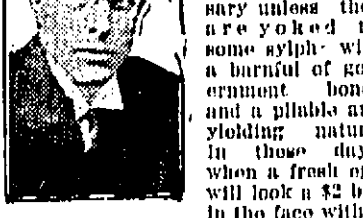

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

Husbands.

(By Howard L. Rann.)

Husbands are animated men. Tickets whose sole mission in life is to touch the cash register and look pleasant. The career of a husband is crowded full of cataplectic and overdone bills, and he never gets rid of either until it is time to cash in on his life insurance.

Very few husbands live any longer than is absolutely necessary unless they are yoked to some sylph with a harmful of government bonds and a pliable and yielding nature. In these days, when a fresh egg will look a $2 bill in the face with a cold and stony stare and the price of new-mown butter will set a man's eyeballs back up, he can't see the way home. It requires real heroism to become a husband with the idea of remaining in the business for any length of time. It is all right to weave poetry about Horatius at the bridge and T. Roosevelt backing away from a third term with the speed of a furniture van, but your real hero is the man who introduces his adolescent children to the baptismal font and then undertakes to reach around their appetites on $1.25 a day. Some husbands are domestic in their habits and would rather stay at home nights and crochet or corn apples and be led home by the night watch. Others start out after supper and hit all the high spots on both sides of the elevated, returning with the apologetic look of a man who has imputed himself neatly and with some haste on a sheet of sticky fly paper. The hen-pecked husband is one who falls asleep at the switch when he ought to have risen up and asserted his manhood with a broom handle. When a husband loses his patience and his front teeth he is said to be all in, and is frequently exchanged for a new brand with the "lozenge habit and the hardihood of an arctic explorer."

Where Tea is Eaten.
The tea grown in Burma is almost entirely made into luteal (pickled tea) and eaten as a condiment. It therefore does not affect the world's supply of tea for drinking.

Editor's Mean Revenge.

An editor who was courting a woman of uncertain age, but positive bank account, was cut out by a gentleman from a neighboring town, who married her and took her home. Whereupon the editor sought a mean revenge by heading account of her wedding: "Another Old Maident Gone."

FIRE EXTINGUISHER

ON EARTH, THE FAMOUS "LIBERTY."

Dry Chemical. Weighs only 3 lbs. Instantly destroys, by scientifically smothering all kinds of fire, no matter how fierce or savage—whether from Gasoline, Naphtha, Benzine, kerosene, Rubbish, Electricity or your own clothing alight—out goes the fire in a flash by simply dashing "Liberty" dry chemical into the flames. "Liberty" never freezes, cokes nor hardens in the tube but retains all its fire-extinguishing properties until used.

COAL SUPPLY GOOD, SAY LOCAL DEALERS

Present Prospects Do Not Indicate a Shortage of Fuel in Janesville General Verdlet.

Inquiries at the various coal yards in the city have revealed the fact that the coal supply, both bituminous and anthracite, in this city is good and that there is no immediate prospect of a coal famine. At several of the yards it was stated that severe storm which might delay transportation seriously, might cause their supply to run low, but at present there was no reason for fear.

"We have lots of coal, both hard and soft," said one dealer this morning, "and we can see no danger of a shortage." We have a good supply of all grades on hand," said another dealer, "and unless a severe storm should seriously hinder transportation, we can furnish all our customers with all the coal they want."

There was a shortage reported in only one or two yards and large shipments on the way which are expected at any day will replenish their bins completely. The situation is exceedingly good after the excessive demands for fuel which have come to all the yards as a result of extended cold spells. Other towns near Janesville have not been so fortunate in their coal dealers' provisions, and report serious shortages. Deloit and Madison both complain of the need of a better supply of all grades of coal.

Sunspots.

The world is coming rapidly to the conclusion that the main use and purpose of sunspots is to give astronomers something to form theories about.

PRESBYTERIAN CLUB HAD GOOD MEETING

Dr. Nuzum Addressed Young Men at Meeting Last Night—Will Invite Dr. Sears to Speak.

The Young Men's Presbyterian Club of the Presbyterian church had an enthusiastic meeting last evening in the dining room of the church. After supper and a program of poems recitations, stories by the members of the club an address was given by Dr. Nuzum on "Life's Opportunities and How to Meet Them." Dr. Nuzum spoke of the many inviting fields now open to young capable men and said that with industry, patience and time any man with ordinary capability can win for himself a place of influence and power either as a physician, lawyer, clergyman, farmer, or man of affairs.

The club decided to invite Dr. H. W. Sears who spoke at the church a few Sundays ago to give a lecture some time during the month of February. Dr. Sears has already signified his willingness to do so.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by George Matthew Adams BY WALT MASON

I have a spavin on my knee, and when the weather's damp it causes so much misery and I find it hard to tramp. And when for remedies I beg between my unrelieved MANY REMEDIES "You have no leg—you're merely dreaming dreams. And since you have no leg, my friend, no spavin is there; so let your idle rantings end, and to your labors begin." Another healer who has straw where doctors should have brains, says, "Let me at it with my saw, and I'll relieve your pain." "Internal remedies," says one, "will make that spavin fade," and then he brews about a tin of sparkling skunkroast. "A flaxseed poultice," says one leech, "your anguish will allay," and it's so hot folks hear the screech ten parascings away. Another would a blister use, still other gifted men insist that powders in my shoes will make me whole again. And so I tramp along my path in sore and grievous plight, and in my heart there is no wrath, for all the docs are right.

What We Mean By Perfectly Pasteurized Milk

Pasteurization of milk and cream has become one of the most important factors in bringing about a higher standard of milk conditions all over the country. Nevertheless there are various kinds of so-called pasteurization.

"Perfect Pasteurization" is not alone endorsed by leading health officials but in some cities this method is made imperative. It is extremely simple in its principle—merely heating the milk to a temperature of 145 degrees F., holding it there for thirty minutes, then rapidly cooling it. The celebrated Prof. Pasteur was the discoverer of this method, and its highly effective results in producing a milk free from injurious germs has won for it the name of "perfect Pasteurization."

It behooves you to know that in Janesville the only "Perfect Pasteurized" milk obtainable is from us.

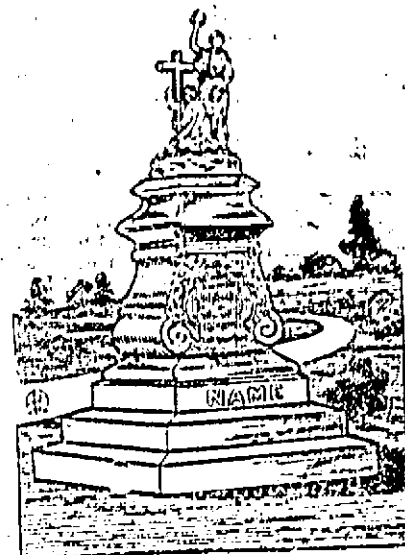

Insist on "Perfect Pasteurized" milk or cream. It costs no more than the other kind and is guaranteed to be pure, sweet, clean and free from all harmful germs.

We have six wagons distributing it to all parts of the city and will be pleased to deliver to your home tomorrow if you say so.

Broth Fifty Years Old.

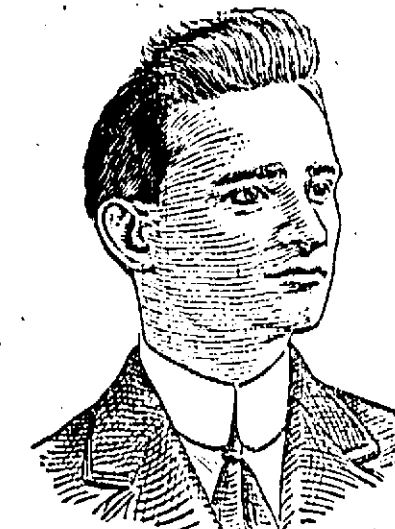

A flask containing a real broth made by the celebrated French biologist, Louis Pasteur, in the '50s, when he was making his first experiments in the sterilization of liquids, was one of the interesting exhibits at the clinic of Dr. Ernest La Place, at Medical-Chirurgical hospital. The broth, which had been patented by the eminent scientist, was in no way affected by the passage of more than a half century since its manufacture, demonstrating Pasteur's theory that germs are not spontaneously generated and that, with them removed, organic fluids may be preserved indefinitely. The flask was given Dr. La Place by Pasteur 24 years ago, when the Philadelphia surgeon was studying in Paris under the noted Frenchman and because of its associations is considered a valuable. — Philadelphia Record.

Fame Dickens Gave Bath.

Bath is a city for which the Dickens lover ought to have a peculiar affection. Dickens stayed frequently in Bath in his early days, when engaged on reporting work, and his tobacco jar and beer mug are still proudly preserved at the Saracen's Head. About six miles from Bath is the tiny village of Piddick, through which Dickens often passed, and he bestowed the name upon his most famous creation. Many of the scenes in "Piddick" are, it will be remembered, laid in Bath. There is at the present moment—or was until quite recently—a tradesman in Bath of the name of Snodgrass. But can you find a Tuppian in the world to bring an action against a novelist?—London Chronicle.

FRECKLES

By Gene Stratton-Porter

COPYRIGHT, 1904, BY DOUBLEDAY, PAGE & CO.

Freckles lifted a face with a glow of happy color creeping into it and eyes lighting with a former brightness. "Oh, how I love you! Oh, I wish I could make you know how I love you!"

McLean strained him to his breast. "God bless you, Freckles," he said. "I do know! We're going to have some good old times out of this world together, and we can't begin too soon. Would you rather sleep first, or get a bite of lunch and have the drive with me, and then rest? I don't know but sleep will come sooner and deeper to take the ride and have your mind set at ease before you lie down. Suppose you go."

"Suppose I do," said Freckles, with a glimmer of the old light in his eyes and newly found strength to shoulder the other. Together they turned into the stable.

McLean noticed and spoke of the big black chickens.

"They've been hanging round out there for several days past," said Freckles. "I'll tell you what I think it means. I think the old ratter has killed something too big for him to swallow, and he's keeping guard and won't let me chickens have it. I'm just sure, from the way the birds have acted out there all summer, that it is the ratter's den. You watch them now. See the way they dip and then rise, frightened like?"

Suddenly McLean turned on him with blanching face.

"Freckles!" he cried.

"You think it's Jack?" shuddered Freckles.

He dropped the other, caught up his club, and plunged into the stable, searching for his revolver. McLean followed. The chickens circled higher at their coming, and the big snake lifted his head and rattled angrily. It sank in sinuous coils at the report of McLean's revolver, and together he and Freckles stood beside Black Jack. His fate was evident and most horrible.

"Come," said the boss at last. "We don't dare touch him. We will get a sheet from Mrs. Duncan and tuck over him, to keep those swarms of insects away, and set him on guard, while we go for the officers."

Freckles' lips closed resolutely. He deliberately thrust his club under Black Jack's body and, raising him, rested it on his knee. He pulled a long silver pin from the front of the dead man's shirt and sent it spinning out into the stable. Then he gathered up a few crumpled bright flowers and dropped them into the pool far away.

"That 'twas a 'gold mine,' 'twas said he didn't know where the marked tree were, but he knew a man that did, and if I would hold off and let them get the marked ones there were a dozen they could take out in a few days."

"Freckles," cried McLean, "you don't mean a dozen?"

"That's what he said, sir—a dozen. He said they couldn't tell how the grain of all of them would work up, of course, but they were all worth taking out, and five or six were real gold mines. This makes three they've tried, so there must be nine more marked, and several of them for being just 'luc'."

"Well, I wish I knew which they were," said McLean, "so that I could get them out first."

I HAVE been thinking," said Freckles. "I believe if you will, leave one of the guards on the line—say Hall—that I will begin on the swamp at the north end and lay it off in sections and try to hunt out the marked trees. I suppose they are all marked something like that first maple on the line was. Wessner mentioned another good one not so far from that. He said it was best of all. I'd be having the swelled head if I could find that. Of course I don't know a thing about the trees, but I could hunt for the marks. Jack was so good at it he could tell some of them by the mark, but all he wanted to know was to get on to so far have just had a deep clip out rather low down and where the bushes were thick over it. I believe I could be finding some of them."

"Good head!" said McLean. "We will do that. You may begin as soon as you are rested. And about things you came across in the swamp, Freckles, the most trifling little thing that you think the Bird Woman would want, take your wheel and go after her at any time. I'll leave two men on the line, so that you will have one on either side, and you can come and go as you please. Have you stopped to think of all we owe her, my boy?"

"Yes; and the angel—we owe her a lot, too," said Freckles. "I owe her me."

"Good head!" said McLean. "We will do that. You may begin as soon as you are rested. I'll leave two men on the line, so that you will have one on either side, and you can come and go as you please. Have you stopped to think of all we owe her, my boy?"

In Freckles' room now rested on the stump of the newly felled tree. Enough of the vines were left to cover it prettily, and every vestige of the havoc of a few days before was gone. The new guards were patrolling the trail. Freckles was roughly laying off the swamp in sections and searching for marked trees. In that time he had found one deeply clipped and the chip cunningly replaced and tucked in. It promised to be quite rare, so he was jubilant. He also found so many subjects for the Bird Woman that her coming was of almost daily occurrence, and the hours he spent with her and the angel were nothing less than golden.

The Lumberlost now was arrayed like the queen of Sheba in all her glory. The first frosts of autumn had bejeweled her crown in flashing topaz, ruby and emerald. About her feet trailed the purple of her garments, and in her hand was her golden scepter. Everything was at full tide. It seemed as if nothing could grow lovelier, and it was all standing still a few weeks, waiting coming destruction.

The swamp was pulsant with life. Every pair of birds that had flocked to it in the spring was now multiplied by from two to ten. The young were tame from Freckles' tripartite, and so plump and sleek that they were quite as beautiful as their elders, even if in many cases they lacked their brilliant plumage. There were chubby little groundhogs scudding along the trail. There were cunning baby coons and opossums peeping from hollow logs and trees. Young muskrats followed their parents across the lagoons.

If you could come upon a family of foxes that had not yet disbanded and seen the young playing with a wild duck's carcass that their mother had brought and note the pride and satisfaction in her eyes as she lay at one side guarding them it would be a picture not to be forgotten. Freckles never tired of studying the devotion of a fox mother to her babies.

The angel was wild about the baby rabbits and squirrels. Earlier in the season, when the young were still very small, it had so happened that at times Freckles could give into her hands one of these little ones. Then it was pure joy to stand back and watch her heaving breast, flushed cheek and shining eyes. There were such lovely eyes. They were forever changing. Now sparkling and darkling with wit, now humid with sympathy, now burning with the fire of courage, now taking on strength of color with ambition, now flashing indignantly at the abuse of any creature. She had carried several of the squirrel and bunny babies home and had the conservatory littered with them. Her care of them was perfect.

Brown butterfly time had come. The outer edge of the swamp was filled with milkweed and other plants beloved of them, and the air was golden with the flashing satin wings of the monarch, viceroy and argynnis. They outnumbered those of any other color three to one.

Among the birds it really seemed as if the little yellow fellows were in the preponderance. At least they were until the red winged blackbirds and bobolinks that had nested on the upland came swarming by hundreds for these last few weeks before migration. Never was there a finer feast spread for the birds. The grasses were filled with seeds; so, too, were weeds of every variety. Fall berries were ripe. Wild grapes and black haws were ready.

They seemed to feel the new reign of peace and fullness most of all. As for hunting, they didn't even have to hunt for themselves these days, for the bounty now being spread before Little Chicken every day was more than he could master, and he was glad to have his parents come down and feast with him.

It was a fine, overgrown fellow, and his wings, with quills of jolly black, gleaming with bronze, were so strong they almost lifted his body. The funny little hops, springs and sideways bounds he gave set Freckles and the angel, hidden out in the swamp watching him, into smothered chuckles of delight.

Sometimes he fell to coquetting with himself, and that was the funniest thing of all, for he turned his head up, down, from side to side, and drew in his chin with prissy little jerks and this. He would stretch his neck, throw up his head, turn it to one side and snicker—actually snicker, the most complacent and self-satisfied snicker that any one ever saw on the face of a bird. It was so comical that Freckles and the angel told the Bird Woman of it one day.

When she finished her work on Little

Chicken she left them the camera all ready for use, telling them they might hide back in the bushes and watch. If Little Chicken came out and truly smiled and they could squeeze the bulb at just the proper moment to snap him she would be more than delighted.

Freckles and the angel quietly curled down beside a log and with eager eyes and softest breathing patiently waited. They were becoming anxious, for the light would soon be gone and they had so wanted to try for the picture. At last Little Chicken lifted his head, opened his beak and gaped widely. He dozed a minute or two more. The angel said that was his beauty sleep. Then he lazily gaped again and stood up, stretching and yawning. He snubbed leisurely down toward the gateway, and the angel said, "Now, we may have a chance, at last."

"I do hope so," shivered Freckles. With one accord they rose to their knees and trained their eyes on the mouth of the log. The light was full and strong. Little Chicken prospected again with no results. He dressed his plumage, polished his beak, and when he felt fine and in full toilet he began to flirt with himself. Freckles' eyes snapped and his breath sucked between his clenched teeth.

"He's going to do it!" whispered the angel.

Little Chicken nodded daintily and ruffled his feathers. He gave his head sundry little sideways jerks and rapidly shifted his point of vision. Once there was the fleeting little ghost of a smile.

"Now! Now!" snapped the angel. Freckles leaned toward the bird. Tense as a steel trap he waited. "Unconsciously the hand of the angel clamped his. He scarcely knew it was there. Suddenly Little Chicken sprang straight up in the air and landed with a thud. The angel started slightly, but Freckles was immovable. Then, as if in approval of his last performance, the overgrown baby wheeled unsteadily, almost full side, toward the camera, straightened on his legs, squared his shoulders, stretched his neck full height, drew in his chin and smirked his most pronounced smirk directly in the face of the lens.

ENGLISH SYMPATHY FOR AMERICA.

By A. W. MACY.

The sentiment in England against America during the Revolutionary war was not unanimous by any means. If a popular vote had been taken it is likely that a majority would have been found favoring the American side. On June 24, 1775, the lord-mayor and aldermen of London adopted an "Address, Remonstrance and Petition" to the king, expressing their abhorrence of the tyrannical measures pursued against their fellow-subjects in America, and asking him to disavow his ministers and counselors who were responsible for such an unrighteous war. Being notified of this, the king signified his willingness to receive the petition at his next levee, or public reception. The lord-mayor and aldermen refused to present it except when he was sitting on his throne. He replied that he would receive any kind of a petition, but he must be the judge as to where. Both sides were stubborn, and the petition was never officially presented. They took care, however, that a copy of it was presented to the king in private.

PETER HAURICHT
MOST DARING HOLDUP.

San Francisco, Calif.—One of the most daring train holdups in the history of the state occurred when Southern Pacific train No. 16, better known as the Oregon Express, was boarded at Red Bluff by two unmasked men, who bound and gagged the mail clerks and rifled six pouches of regular mail. The bandits did not leave the train until it pulled into Redding, when they made their escape.

Just as the train stopped at Red Bluff, the men entered the mail car. Peter Hauricht of 1004 H street, South Berkeley, the mail clerk's helper, who was due to get off at that point and transfer to Train No. 14, which passes through Red Bluff an hour or two later, was stopped at the point of a revolver and forced to return to the car. Then, while one highwayman watched to see that their work was not interrupted, Hauricht was forced to blind the other two clerks, Charles J. Kohn and Robert B. Warner, using the ropes attached to the mail sacks, and to mail.

cut open the pouches of registered. The utmost coolness was displayed by the holdup men. No attempt to escape with their booty was made at Red Bluff. Although continuing on the train involved the danger of discovery at Cottonwood and Anderson where mail has to be exchanged, they performed that duty with the ease of veteran mail clerks, and remained on the train until Redding was reached.

Escape at Redding.
As soon as Redding was reached they slipped from the car, one making his way along the west side of the train to the rear. He was described as smooth-shaven, weight about 160 pounds, 5 feet 10 inches in height; about 35 years old and wearing a slouch hat and a blue serge suit. The other escaped unnoticed. He is described as 5 feet 7 or 9 inches in height; weight about 160 pounds; smooth-shaven. He wore a short reddish-brown box coat and a broad, stiff-brimmed hat.

ELASTIC CURRENCY SYSTEM EXPLAINED; VIRTUES EXTOLLED

Professor J. Laurence Laughlin in Address Last Night, Calls National Reserve "A Stroke of Genius."

Explaining the need in the United States today for a more elastic system of currency to obviate the besetting dangers of financial crises and panics which have periodically appeared, Professor J. Laurence Laughlin, of the University of Chicago, in his address in the City Hall assembly room last evening, outlined the National Reserve Association plan which he declared was a "stroke of genius," being an evolution from the present system of banking in this country.

Professor Laughlin's address was comprehensive of the important needs of the present system and of the merits of the proposed plan, and he held the attention of a large audience of business and professional men of the city throughout his discourse.

He began by explaining the rigidity of our present financial system, showing that neither our note issue or our credit system are elastic. Of the two, however, he stated there was a greater need for an elastic credit system, for the volume of notes and money is small compared with the amount of business done by credit transactions.

"The lending power of a bank," he said, "can go on only so long as there is a surplus of reserves. When this surplus is used up business is stopped, loans are called, credit is denied—everyone strives to save himself, and panic conditions are the result. It is not due to bad business or bad banking, but to bad system. At a time when credit is needed most, it is withheld."

After outlining some of the fundamental problems in establishing a flexible credit system in the United States, he explained the merits of the new plan which he called the National Reserve Association. It is generally recognized, he said, that all of these evils might be corrected by some means of co-operation. This would not destroy competitive business in any way, nor would it entail the adoption of laws creating a central bank, such as are in practice in Europe. It would rather be an outgrowth, or an evolution, from our own financial system—the clearing house.

"It would be necessary to make the reform nationwide, including the state banks as well as the national institutions, all of which would be co-operated for mutual protection in times of stress. He characterized the plan as nothing less than "a stroke of genius," and a conception which was firmly sound in every way.

This central agency would combine the reserves of all banks for the purpose of making good merchantable securities in times of financial panic. An extension of the credit would then be possible when most needed.

The plan also included the taking over the business of the United States treasury department, which would result in a great economy in the paying and distribution of the government money. Government officials would be officers in the association; and other officers would be named by branches which were formed locally. Fifteen divisions or branches are embodied in the plan for the entire nation.

There are only two grave dangers, the speaker said, to the plan. One is sinister financial control and the other is adverse political control. He demonstrated, however, that financial control would be very nearly impossible as it would require a control of eight of the fifteen branches, a capital of at least two billion dollars, and after securing control there would be no advantage.

Political interference was by far the greatest danger. The idea that the matters of credit and monetary problems should be left to the people in a sort of referendum rather than to the decision of experts, was dangerous. They should rather be represented by experts who could look out for monetary difficulties. It was pointed out that the working man was always the one who suffered most in hard times and who, therefore, was most interested in a better system; but it was a matter too complex to be left to "the mere counting of noses."

Other details and principles of the proposed system were explained and comparisons made with other plans, and the result that the National Reserve Association plan stood out as the logical evolution of our present banking system solving the great monetary problems in a most satisfactory way.

Following his address Professor Laughlin answered several questions concerning the so-called Aldrich plan which was substantially the same system as he had outlined. A matter of comparison with the European banking institutions was also made, showing how their methods met difficulties and why they could not be adopted with expediency in this country.

The tyrant will blind—what? The leg. He will take away—what? The head. What, then, can he not blind and not take away? The will. And hence that precept of the ancients, "Know Thyself."—Epictetus.
